U. S. Releases $17,000,000 Road Fund to Georgia

ACTION FOLLOWS CONFERENCE WITH RIVERS, ARNALL

Federal Bureau To Stay
Neutral in Fight Over
Miller Ouster; $6,000,000
Work Starts Soon.

By L. A. FARRELL.

Georgia's $17,000,000 federal highway fund, held up since the ouster of W. L. Miller as chairman of the State Highway Board, was ordered released yesterday by Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody, following a series of conferences with Governor Rivers and Attorney General Ellis Arnall, in Washington after which Carmody announced the federal government would take no part in the Georgia highway row.

Governor Rivers arrived in Atlanta yesterday afternoon, having left Attorney General Arnall in Washington to complete details of release of the funds. He immediately called the members of the highway board into conference and announced that work on federal projects would get under way at once.

"Greatest Program."

"We already have upwards of $2,000,000 worth of work under contract, awaiting the go signal from Washington," Rivers said. "As soon as contracts can be let we will have an additional $4,000,000 worth going. We are ready for the greatest road building program in Georgia's history."

Governor Rivers and Arnall met with Administrator Carmody immediately after leaving the White House Tuesday but this fact was not revealed until the Carmody announcement came yesterday. Observers held to the belief that the Governor and the attorney general appealed to the President to help get the money freed but Rivers insisted last night that he only called at the White House to invite President Roosevelt to dedicate the new $3,000,000 hospital for the insane at Milledgeville, an invitation which the chief executive has accepted tentatively.

"The Federal Works Administration will take no sides in the controversy as to the membership of the highway board in Georgia," Administrator Carmody announced in Washington. "This is a matter for determination by the officials of the state or by the courts."

Public Protected.

"In order that the people of Georgia may not be deprived of the funds to which they are entitled, the Public Works Administration is prepared to take whatever steps may be necessary to effectuate construction and pay-

Huntley Chapin Sr., of Hollywood, Cal., is shown during one of the court recesses at Fulton county courthouse yesterday where he sought legal custody of his 12-year-old son, whom he hasn't seen since 1931, and who does not know Chapin is his father. Willard F. Cummings, stepfather of the boy, is opposing the real father's plea. The mother died last year.

Stepfather Battles 'Real Daddy' For Boy 'Who Doesn't Know'

Atlanta Man Tells Court the Motherless Child Is Treated Like His Own; Father Comes From California To Plead Case.

The father of a 12-year-old motherless Atlanta boy yesterday sought legal custody of his son whom he hasn't seen since babyhood and who has been reared to believe his stepfather his "real daddy."

Both father and stepfather pleaded earnestly in Fulton superior court for custody of the boy whose mother died in Tampa, Fla., last year and who since that time has been living with his maternal grandmother and several aunts on Peachtree road.

The suit was brought by the real father, Huntley Chapin Sr., Hollywood, Cal., investment expert, who submitted affidavits from Clarence Brown, Hollywood director, and James M. Cox Jr., Atlanta publisher, attesting he could provide for the child.

Opposing the petition was Willard F. Cummings, formerly of Chicago but who now resides at 2840 Peachtree road. He is the son of W. C. Cummings, president of the Drovers Trust & Savings Co. in Chicago. Cummings brought out the father had been granted

Traffic Injuries

Fatal to Boy, 6

Atlanta traffic death toll yesterday jumped two above the figure for the same period last year when a six-year-old negro boy, Clifford Turner, of 7 Gunby place, died in Grady of injuries received

Tuesday at Edgewood avenue and Krog street.

His death marked the 10th traffic fatality within city limits since the first of the year, and the first this month. Of the 10 deaths nine involved pedestrians.

J. W. Wood, 382 Atlanta avenue, S. E., listed as driver of the car, said the boy ran between two parked cars. No charges were placed against Wood.

GALLOGLY'S WIFE VISITS GOVERNOR TO PLEAD FOR MATE

Today Is Deadline for Filing Appeal to Decision
Denying Georgia Escape His Freedom.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 6.—Pretty, blond Vera Hunt Gallogly, wife of Georgia's currently most famous fugitive, made a last, personal plea to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel here today to save her husband, Richard Gray Gallogly, from being returned to Georgia to serve two life sentences for murder.

Chic and attractive, the convicted slayer's wife was with Governor O'Daniel for several minutes but when she came out of the chief executive's office she refused to discuss the conference with reporters. Nor would O'Daniel comment.

Believed Desperate.

Her move in appealing to O'Daniel was seen here as one of near desperation, because tomorrow is the last day Dick Gallogly's attorneys have in which to file a motion for rehearing the Texas court of criminal appeals' decision denying their petition of habeas corpus.

Unless the motion is filed, Gallogly is at the end of his legal rope in the Lone Star state.

The "Texas justice," for which Gallogly and his former school teacher wife pleaded following their mad flight to Dallas after a daring escape from Georgia prison guards last fall, has meant only defeat for the young couple.

O'Daniel Denies Aid.

"Pass the biscuits, Pappy," O'Daniel listened two whole days to their entreaty not to grant extradition last October in Texas' pink granite state house. O'Daniel turned thumbs down on Gallogly and stated Texas would not become the haven for escaped criminals.

Immediately, Gallogly's lawyers, State Senator Jesse Martin, of Fort Worth, and Harold Young, of Dallas, began filing legal papers. They brought a writ of habeas corpus in Dallas, alleging Sheriff "Smoot" Schmid was holding Gallogly illegally.

The lower court denied the petition, and weeks later the high court heard the arguments and sustained the judgment.

Wife Indicted.

In the meantime, Vera Hunt Gallogly, who was once the star student and a former teacher at the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, Ga., remains under indictment in Fulton county, for shoplifting, returned by a grand jury shortly after she fled with her husband. Georgia has never made an effort to extradite Mrs. Gallogly.

Atlanta Summers Get Hotter;

Mindling Doesn't Know Why

(Pictures on Page 8)

Atlanta summers are getting hotter!

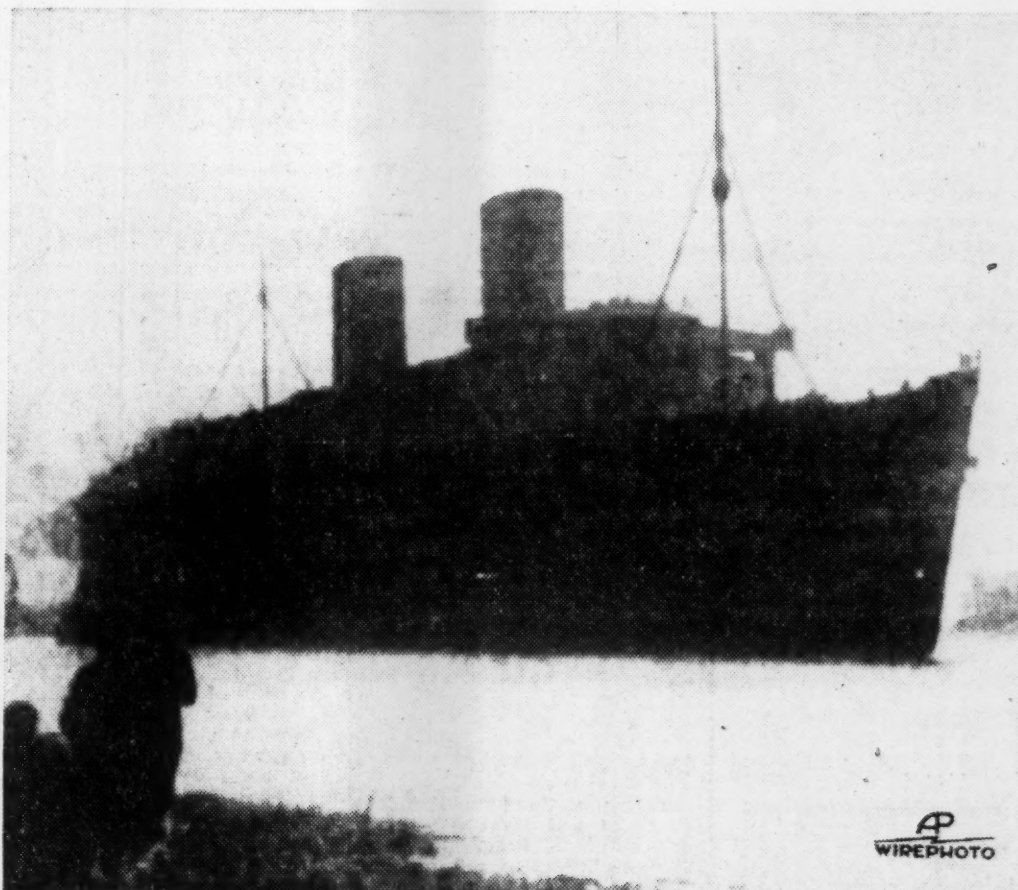

And with warm spring days already edging into a windy March calendar, summer of 1940 isn't so far off. Will it be hotter?

George W. Mindling, the local forecaster, made a survey of Atlanta's summer heat yesterday and found that all the summers during the 1930's were warmer than the normal Atlanta summer.

The average of June, July and August temperatures for the past 61 years in Atlanta is 77.3 degrees.

Fourteen out of the past 20 summers were hotter than this. And the ten-year average for the last three decades shows an increase in summer temperature each decade.

Queen Elizabeth at Start of Daring Dash to U. S.

WIREPHOTO

This photo, released in London last night and transmitted by cable, shows the $28,750,000 British liner Queen Elizabeth as she left her berth in the Clyde river for her daring voyage across the Atlantic to New York. Thousands of Clyde residents knew the secret, but held their tongues, lest Nazi spies learn about the voyage and transmit the news to the U-boats.

Dramatic Missive Written by Murder Victim May Have Been Forecast of Double Slaying

14 ITALIAN SHIPS HELD BY BRITISH

100,000 Tons of Coal
Detained; More U. S.
Vessels Are Searched.

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—Great Britain's economic warfare command summarily seized the German coal cargoes of eight Italian ships today as prizes of war, let Italy wait for an answer to her protest and released a series of statistics showing the extent to which United States shipping, too, is enmeshed in the British blockade of the Nazi Reich.

Eight of the 14 Italian colliers rolling in the swells of control authorities. A hundred thousand tons of coal have been detained.

Nine United States ships, it was stated today, were examined in British contraband control ports between February 24 and March 2.

CENSURE MOVE FAILS.

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—The British government tonight repulsed its first wartime motion of censure in the house of commons—on the new Palestine land laws. The vote was 292 to 129.

Letter to Best Friend Expressed Fear of Complications.

By WILLARD COPE,
Staff Writer.

McDONOUGH, Ga., March 6.—

Four elements of stark drama—love, rivalry, jealousy, and feminine fear—were written by her own hand today into the life of blond 21-year-old Sara Martha Rawls who died late Saturday night in the Henry county "lovers' lane" double-murder mystery.

The text came into The Constitution's possession of a letter she sent to her most intimate girl friend, Johnnie Miller, of Stone- wall, Ga., relating to the week end of February 24-25—just one week previous to her death with Benton Ford, 24, on a lonely side road, off Highway 42, three miles south of Stockbridge.

Wrote the girl on Washington's Birthday, Thursday:

Letter of Drama.

"I just heard from (name deleted) and he says he's going to be in Atlanta over the week end and will be down to see me. I guess this is where I'll catch hell because (a different name deleted) will find out about everything. I know one thing, I'm not going to treat (second name deleted) dirty for anybody. I wouldn't break a date with him for the President's son."

The extent, if any, which the revelations bore to the tragedy was wholly a matter of conjecture.

Careful inquiry by two Constitution representatives at all of the places in or near McDonough, frequented by Sara and her friends, brought out that no one had seen either of the young men mentioned in the missive on the day or night of the tragedy.

The dead girl's mother, Mrs. J. T. Rawls, was certain of this, as was Mrs. Sarah Brown, white-haired proprietor of the McDon-

McLarin Resigns Welfare Position

Is Succeeded by Dr.
Vinton; Relief Is Studied by Commissioners.

W. S. McLarin Jr., veteran member of the Fulton county public welfare board, resigned yesterday because of the press of business affairs, and the county commissioners appointed Dr. Luther M. Vinton, a physician, as his successor.

This action came at a meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon, which was largely devoted to consideration of relief and relief financing.

The commissioners also:

1. Were warned by Hughes Spalding, county attorney, that if appropriations to relief are increased from 2 1/4 mills to 2 3/4 mills, provision must be made to decrease expenditures of other departments to keep the total budget figure within 90 per cent of the amount of actual cash collected in 1939.

2. Heard an appeal by Mrs. J. D. Thomas, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, for them adequately to finance relief to the starving thousands, but not to increase the total tax levy for the county.

3. Authorized the county to borrow.

Mayor La Guardia Is To Pause Here

Mayor La Guardia, of New York, will pause briefly at the municipal airport this afternoon en route to Birmingham for the southeastern regional conference of the United States Conference of Mayors, which opens there tomorrow morning.

The party also will include Mayor Sculley, of Pittsburgh; Mayor Douglas, of Charlotte, and Mayor Sholtz, of Louisville. Official greetings will be extended here by Mayor Hartsfield, who also will attend the conference. The incoming plane is due at 2:05 o'clock, and the group is to leave 10 minutes later.

OFF U. S. COAST AFTER HAZARDOUS WAR-ZONE TRIP

Voyage Shrouded in Secrecy Took Only Few Days; German Bombers Reason for Her Flight.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—The $28,750,000 British liner Queen Elizabeth, the biggest ship afloat, neared the neutral sanctuary of New York harbor tonight after a secret and audaciously successful run from England across the perilous north Atlantic.

The 85,000-ton vessel, still not wholly completed, was expected to dock early tomorrow and berth alongside the next-best in the British merchant fleet, the 81,000-ton Queen Mary, and the mightiest of French liners, the 83,000-ton Normandie.

Both have lain here in idleness and gathering rust since the outbreak of the war.

Secrecy Broken.

The Elizabeth began her run for it under conditions of the utmost secrecy—and all but ended it the same way. It was not until late this afternoon that word seeped out here that she was on the way and an hour or so later this was authoritatively confirmed in London.

(The Queen Elizabeth left her fitting basin on the Clyde February 26, the United Press reported, and slipped away to an unannounced destination. The giant vessel took 15 hours to negotiate the 15 miles to the open sea, assisted by tugs, and then disappeared in the mist.

(The ship apparently carried no lifeboats, was painted Britain's wartime drab gray and from the shore appeared to be unarmed.)

The confirmation of the dash came only after the liner was judged to be safe beyond question and seemed immediately to point to one of these conclusions: That the submarine menace in the Atlantic was not as great as had appeared earlier in the war; that the Elizabeth's great speed had been a vital factor—her top is assumed to be about 30 knots—or that her convoy was so powerful as to be impregnable.

(In this connection it was recalled that at least two German submarines have been seen off the British west coast since the beginning of the war, one in November and the other last month.

(The British tanker San Florentino, 12,842 tons, was torpedoed and sunk off the southwest coast yesterday, it was revealed only today.)

Nowhere in the war's six-month history thus far had there been such a feat by a merchant ship, save the long, furtive and

Maxine Elliott Dies at Age of 67

CANNES, France, March 6.—(AP) Maxine Elliott, 67, famous American actress who achieved success both in Europe and the United States, died last night at her chateau at Juan Les Pins.

For many years since her retirement from the stage Miss Elliott had lived on the French Riviera at her villa L'Horizon where European royalty and other notables were frequent guests.

Among the famous friends entertained at Miss Elliott's chateau was the Duke of Windsor, who echoed the admiration of his grandfather, Edward VII, for the American actress.

Miss Elliott was divorced in 1908 from Nat Goodwin, a noted actor in the early 1900s and never remarried.

SENATE REFUSES TO STRIP VITALITY FROM HATCH LAW

Three Votes Foil Effort To Remove Part Keeping U.S. Employees Out of Political Activities.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P) By a dramatic three-vote margin, the senate refused today to strip the Hatch act of its vital section forbidding government employees to engage in political activities.

Twenty-two Democrats joined with an all solid alignment of Republicans to retain the full vigor of the law, and the vote was 44 to 41. Most of the southern Democrats, it was noted, joined in the losing effort to alter the law.

The action came upon an amendment by Senator Miller, Democrat, Arkansas, which he said would leave federal employees free to undertake political work on a purely voluntary basis. He argued that the law as it stands infringes their constitutional rights.

Senator Hatch, Democrat, New Mexico, author of the act, usually the soul of unruffled calmness in debate, heatedly retorted that the amendment would cause a return to the "spoils system" of handing out political offices.

"The issue," he shouted, "is between the spoils system—the patronage of job system—and the one that lies on the other side—the efficiency system."

Just before the vote, Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, pounded his desk and warned the Democrats that adoption of the amendment would imperil Democratic chances in the presidential election.

As the vote proceeded it soon appeared that a surprise might be in the making. That was the attitude of the senators from the south.

AUSTRALIAN MINERS CALL MARCH 11 STRIKE

SYDNEY, Australia, March 6.—(P)—A coal strike affecting 20,000 miners in four of the commonwealth's states was called today for March 11.

Miners in Victoria and New South Wales voted preponderantly in favor of the strike for shorter hours and higher wages.

VENEZUELAN LEADERS PAY VISIT TO F. D. R.

'U-All' Can't Turn 'Round Heah

No "U-all" turns is right. This is a reproduction of a cartoon which appears in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. Nothing makes a southern "hatter" under the collar than to be accused of using "you-all" when referring to one person. The cartoonist quite humorously makes his play on the plural, which southerners hold to be correct. The background gives a mute but vivid indorsement to the planning commission's campaign to make approaches to the city more beautiful.

Six Eggs Average, Then Comes Big One.

It's two in one day once a week in so far as this white leghorn hen is concerned.

Every seven days she lays an egg which is twice the size of the ordinary chicken egg and weighs 3 1-2 ounces. The other six days of the week she lays an egg weighing two ounces.

The chicken belongs to A. T. Manley, of Morrow, and has been laying the giant egg each week since Christmas. Manley is the father of Mrs. Al Freeman, who works for The Constitution.

TVA TO FILL LAKES WITH PIKE AND BASS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 6.—(P)—Reservoirs behind Chickamauga and Hiwassee dams will be stocked this spring with approximately 500,000 large-mouthed bass and 600,000 wall-eyed pike, the Tennessee Valley Authority announced today.

The work of stocking the lakes will begin about May 1, the TVA said. The bass will be supplied from the TVA hatchery at Norris dam, and the pike from a hatchery on the Elk river in northern Alabama. The fish are expected to reach legal size for anglers late in 1941 and in the spring of 1942.

SPANISH GRANDEES TO RECOVER LAND

Peasants Must Yield Former Republic's Grants.

MADRID, March 6.—(P)—The government decreed today that lands expropriated from grandes by the vanished Spanish republic for distribution among the peasants be restored to the former owners.

The recently organized colonization institute will undertake the land redistribution, allowing peasants now on the land to remain voluntarily as tenant farmers by paying a government-approved compensation to the landowners. The decree provides that areas operated as communal villages farms under the republic may continue to be so utilized if rental arrangement can be made with the landlords.

will begin about May 1, the TVA said. The bass will be supplied from the TVA hatchery at Norris dam, and the pike from a hatchery on the Elk river in northern Alabama. The fish are expected to reach legal size for anglers late in 1941 and in the spring of 1942.

SALLY TO FEATURE GREEN-HUED FOODS

Editor Will Hold Large Cooking Class at Buckhead Tomorrow.

One of the largest in the series of spring cooking schools conducted by Sally Saver, foods editor of The Constitution, will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Buckhead theater.

St. Patrick's Day foods will be featured in the lecture-demonstration, and tickets for the school may be obtained from any member of the Northside Library Association. Members of the association will be at two Buckhead drug stores all day today selling tickets.

Mrs. Edgar Watkins Sr. and Mrs. C. V. Logan are in charge of arrangements. The proceeds will be used toward the new building for the association.

Sally will work in her portable kitchen, set up on the stage of the theater, and will include in the lecture a discussion of lobster preparation in answer to many requests for spring seafood suggestions.

Green dishes, for sons of Erin, will include an Erin salad of cucumber centers mixed with celery and pineapple and served in cucumber boats with salad dressing.

The colorful mint sherbet will carry out the St. Patrick's day theme, and Sally also will present three variations of entrees. These will be chicken fricassee, American chop suey, and broiled ham slice.

Spiced bean grill and spaghetti with mushrooms and tomato sauce, hearty springtime dishes, will complete the menu for the school where Sally Saver will discuss spring meals from shopping to serving.

The school is sponsored by The Constitution and is offered as an added service to readers who have requested the opportunity to see Sally Saver put into practice her easy, economical methods of food preparation.

New, But Gradual Business Rise Expected by Advisers to F.D.R.

Output, Consumption Now Balanced, Economists Say.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's economic advisers, it was learned authoritatively today, now feel that the economic stage is set for a new, but gradual, upturn of business.

One of the chief executives' regular consultants said he looked for the rise to begin in April. The federal economists, who blame the sharp curtailment of production since December upon factory output outracing consumption, now believe that production and consumption are once more in balance. Therefore, they argue, factories are no longer warranted in curtailing output. This situation is supposed to give the war export and other business-stimulating factors a chance to turn trade indices upward.

In figures, these men calculate by the federal reserve board's monthly index of production. The index reached a record high of 128 in December, and is expected by the federal experts to touch bottom at 105 in April. From that point they are counting on a rise to 115 by the last quarter of 1940. The economists said, however, that there was one important chance of their calculations going awry. During last fall's intensive factory production, vast reserves of inventories of finished or semi-finished goods were piled up in warehouses. These excess stocks have been reduced slightly since the decline in production, but are still large.

This spring, manufacturers will face the choice of using up more of these stocks or of keeping them in reserve and producing more new goods. The economists are banking on the latter, but exercise of the first choice might invalidate their predictions of a business upturn.

MATHIESON BACKED BY THE FIFTY CLUB

Petition Asks Board To Keep Police Chief and Oliver.

Commending the "efficiency and able service" of Fulton County Police Chief George Mathieson and Assistant Chief John C. Oliver, members of the Buckhead Fifty Club yesterday petitioned the Board of County Commissioners to retain the two officials despite a grand jury recommendation that they be retired because of age.

"The heads of any department need intelligence, experience and knowledge more than mere physical activity, which is easily hired and readily directed by capable superiors," the petition read. "The age of these officers in no wise impairs the requirements of their positions."

Signed by former Governor John M. Slaton, Sam D. Hewlett, J. S. Thompson and R. E. Darrough, as officers of the club, the petition expressed the opinion that the grand jury, in urging that the police chiefs be retired because age hindered their activity, "was not fully informed" in its action.

The club, composed of North Fulton club leaders over 50 years of age, expressed to Mr. Mathieson and Mr. Oliver "gratitude for their successful efforts in protecting the citizens of rural Fulton county in their persons and property."

RELIGIOUS DIRECTORS NAMED AT UNIVERSITY

They are Professor W. O. Collins, head of the agronomy department; Dr. O. C. Adenhold, professor of rural and vocational education; Dean Alton Hosch, of the school of law; Miss Elizabeth Todd, professor of home economics education; and Dr. Florene Young, assistant professor of psychology.

The Rev. H. C. Holland, succeeding the Rev. D. C. Wright; Morton S. Hodgson, succeeding Harry Hodgson; O. W. Franklin Sr., Valdosta, succeeding Tigner Thrasher, Ashburn; James M. Hull Jr., Augusta, succeeding Bright McConnell, Augusta; and Wallace Miller, Macon, succeeding Broadus E. Willingham.

FRESHMAN DEBATERS NAMED AT UNIVERSITY

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—Members of the 1940 freshman debating team at the University of Georgia have been selected. Claud Green, varsity debate coach, announced today.

The six-man team includes Blanchard Battle, Columbus; Denmark Groover, Quitman; John Miller, Macon; David Firor, Athens; Elmore Floyd, Camilla; and Beverly Langford, Calhoun.

Hitchhiking 'Homing' Pigeon Maintains Mailbox 'Love Nest'

Bird Picks Its Cars and Rides Miles Before Winging Home.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 5.—Homing pigeons and carrier pigeons are found in many parts of the world, but Baldwin county is the only section that can boast of a "hitchhiking pigeon."

A pigeon owned by Billy Watson, 9, of the Meriwether community, combines its natural aerial abilities with automotive assistance to take jumps of 12 to 20 miles and return, requiring little more than an hour for any of the trips.

Possessed with more nerve and intelligence than most hitchhikers, the bird attaches itself to any car that happens to be parked in the yard of the Watson home.

HITCHHIKER CAN'T RECALL SHOOTING

Michigan Man Accused in Death of Stone Mountain Youth.

Steadfastly holding to his story that he could not remember shooting anyone, Ray Holland, 32-year-old Michigan hitch-hiker, remained in jail yesterday while county police and investigators of the solicitor general's office sought to learn details of the fatal shooting of Lonnie (Bud) Smith, 23-year-old Stone Mountain youth.

Smith was found dead Tuesday afternoon near the entrance to Crestlawn cemetery. A .45-caliber bullet wound had pierced his skull. Just prior to the finding of Smith's body, county police had arrested Holland who was walking near the scene of the shooting in a stupor. He was carrying a .45-caliber pistol, police said.

Holland was taken to the scene of the shooting yesterday but could not recall anything that happened after he said he and a man, whom police say was Smith, had taken a couple of drinks. Holland was charged with murder by Lieutenant W. A. Wells who is investigating the case. Holland, told of the murder charge, denied any knowledge of the young farm worker's death, Wells said.

REVIEW SURVEYS BUSINESS IN 1937

Commerce Bureau Offers Copies of Report.

A review of American business in 1937 is contained in the "Annual Review" number of the Survey of Current Business. W. H. Schroder, Atlanta district manager of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, announced yesterday.

The year's survey includes articles on economics, industrial production, employment, construction, commodity price movements, public utilities, domestic banking and financial developments, railroads, motor carriers and communications, and international balance of payments. Copies can be obtained from Schroder's office at 15 cents each.

BUTTER MOISTURE BRINGS $25 FINE

J. H. Toney Given Suspended Sentence.

Charges of selling butter that contained an excessive amount of moisture yesterday drew a $25 fine and a 12-month suspended sentence for J. H. Toney in the criminal court of Fulton county.

Dr. J. P. Yarbrough, state chemist, said that an analysis of samples of the butter showed that it contained 25 per cent butterfat. State standards require that it contain 80 per cent.

The state law also requires that all foods (including butter) must be labeled with the correct name and address of the manufacturer or producer. Butter also must be free from foreign fats other than butterfat.

PIN-BALLS OUTLAWED

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—City council has outlawed the operation of pin ball machines of all types—including the ones that aren't equipped to pay off occasionally. Councilmen assailed the devices as "encouraging gaming and the general disorder incident thereto."

BLIND WOMAN DIES IN MACON HOSPITAL

Was Mistaken Victim of Acid-Thrower 40 Years Ago.

MACON, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Susie Gray Hillard, blinded in a tragic mishap about 40 years ago, died in a local hospital today after a brief illness.

Mrs. Hillard would have been 82 years of age March 25. She had lived in Macon 76 years. Despite her loss of sight, Mrs. Hillard was successful in the operation of a dry line business after the death of her husband, and she was unusually active in church work.

Older officials recalled that she was the victim of mistaken identity when a caller at her home threw acid believing she was someone else.

She was born in Fort Valley, a daughter of Charlie and Hester Susie Boler Gray. She attended Macon public schools and Wesleyan college.

Surviving are a son, Harold Hillard, of Macon; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. B. Hillard, of Macon; two grandsons, Hillard P. Kidwell, of Atlanta, and Smith Morey Hillard, of Macon; three granddaughters, Misses Gray, Millionette and Irene Hillard, of Macon, and two sisters, Mrs. Lillie Boatwright, of Augusta, and Mrs. Rosa Werner, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Services will be held in a local chapel at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

MARIETTA TO BUILD NEW ICE CREAM PLANT

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. MARIETTA, Ga., March 6.—Plans for a modern 25,000 ice cream plant were disclosed here today by B. G. Hunt, local manufacturer.

Mr. Hunt said the building will be located inside the city limits on the Marietta-Atlanta highway and will be ready for operation by early fall.

PERSONS TREATED FOR SYPHILIS HELD SAFEST SERVANTS

Housewives Warned Not To Be 'Unwise Enough To Discharge Their Help Thoughtlessly.'

Asserting persons under active treatment for syphilis rapidly become non-infectious and probably are safer cooks, nurses, and other domestic employees than those not known to be infected, Dr. John M. Walton, head of the venereal control division of the city health department, yesterday appealed to housewives not to be "unwise enough to discharge their help thoughtlessly."

"We have observed with gratification the increasing tendency on the part of housewives to require blood tests for syphilis from their domestic help," he said. "However, the department does not feel that it is either wise or fair to discharge automatically any person found to be infected or to refuse employment to such persons."

"Probably the safest servant to have in the home as far as syphilis is concerned, is the person who is under active treatment. The person who is free from infection at the time of employment may become infected the next week. On the other hand, the person under active treatment will remain non-infectious even if exposed to infection."

"In spite of these facts we see many servants employed because their blood tests are negative, and they are allowed to work indefinitely without further examination, while the housewife rests on a false sense of security. Conversely, we see many persons refused employment because their blood tests are positive even though they may be in the non-infectious stage or even under adequate treatment."

"The best thing to do in the circumstances is to follow the advice of your own physician or the advice of the local health officer. Either will take all safety measures to protect you, and at the same time to prevent an unnecessary hardship on a patient who is combating the disease."

DEKALB'S JURORS CONTINUE PROBES

Presentments Expected To Be Drawn Today.

Presentments of the March term DeKalb county grand jury are expected to be drawn up this afternoon, incorporating the reports of four subcommittees appointed by Foreman George W. West.

The investigating body spent yesterday morning inspecting the new county medical clinic, examining the records of justices of the peace, auditing the accounts of the commissioner's office and the board of education, and investigating school conditions.

Superintendent of Schools William Rainey appeared before the body yesterday to report on the operation of the system and the extension of the school year.

Work of the March term has been reduced because of the late December session which concluded its session last month. Only six criminal indictments were filed by the present jury.

BOLIVIA WILL SPUR PRODUCTION OF OIL

To Enlarge Refineries With U. S. Machinery.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, March 6.—(AP)—The government announced today that it would spend $73 million bolivianos ($2,088,750) to step up oil production in the San Andita field and enlarge refineries there with machinery to be purchased in the United States.

The objective, the announcement said, is to produce all of the gasoline needed in Bolivia, and to begin production of fuel oil and diesel oil. Fuel and diesel oil now are imported.

Bolivian gasoline consumption this year is estimated at 26,094,513 liters (about 164,000 barrels), compared with 6,750,000 liters (42,000 barrels) in 1939.

RUSSIANS SENTENCE FOUR FOR 'SLANDER'

MOSCOW, March 6.—(AP)—Four men in Kiev have been sentenced to prison terms ranging from 4 to 15 years for slander, Pravda, Communist party organ, reported today.

Pravda said the four were found guilty of "slandering and discrediting in the course of two years nearly 100 Communists and state officials" and of causing the arrest and prosecution of numbers of innocent persons. Pravda said its own editors were deceived.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 7, 1940.

Seems Disproportionate

It is reported that Aubrey Milam, foreman of the last grand jury of Fulton county, told the new jurors that, in order to take care of approximately 1,000 convicts, the county employs almost 400 paid officials and workers. The 1,000 convicts are assigned to the public works department.

If this is correct, it seems evident the proportion of almost one employee to every two convicts, is unreasonable. The county authorities may not be responsible for the condition. Circumstances and regulations beyond their control may compel the state of affairs.

Yet, regardless of the reasons behind the condition, it would indicate that, in all probability, Fulton county would benefit if free labor was used in this department, instead of convict labor, and the prisoners used in some other manner.

The county has for long been struggling with financial difficulties. The terrible plight of thousands who must depend upon public relief for food and shelter has recently been revealed. Lack of sufficient relief funds was shown to be the cause of widespread suffering.

If the public works department finds it necessary to employ 400 salaried workers to guard and care for 1,000 convicts, the public has a right to a detailed report on that situation, with a view to devising a more economical and efficient method of detention for those who must serve sentences for violation of the laws.

Mr. Milam stated the department spent $1,500,000 last year, and taxpayers would undoubtedly be interested in learning just what they received in return for that money. If other benefits were not commensurate with that cost, $1,500,000 is too much to pay for the upkeep of 1,000 prisoners. That amounts to $1,500 a year per prisoner.

All the talk is of the presidency seeking the man and vice versa. One hears nothing of the vice presidency prowling the highways and byways for a victim.

Berlin in Wartime

That well-known soft drink that has come to be regarded as a native son by Georgians everywhere is booming its sales in, of all places, Berlin. And, while the cooling beverage long has been popular overseas, wartime fare has increased the demand sharply. A prying American newspaperman reports he finds it eating into the sales, even, of the Germans' favorite beer. The beer, incidentally, has been sliced in alcoholic content to two per cent.

This pleasing little note is one of the few things in wartime Germany that this particular reporter, a press service cable editor accompanying Undersecretary of State Welles, found at all cheering. Some of his impressions are interesting and pertinent, however, mirroring the impact of modern war upon the civilian population.

The people of Germany actually are getting fat on war-time rations because of a preponderance of starchy foods. In contrast to London, there are no sandbags and entrances to air raid shelters are inconspicuous. Gas masks are not in evidence on the streets. Strips of paper that decorate store windows in Paris and London are absent. But then Berlin need hardly expect air raids except as a retaliatory measure. Cloth and paper are scarce in Germany, and the newspaperman notes that the Reich reckons all expenditure and effort these days in relation to the war objective. As for example, in the distribution of ration cards, under which a worker in an armament factory is rated as a "heavy" laborer and gets more food, while a pick and shovel operator doing an equal volume of work is placed in a lower category. Buildings may actually be cheaper from this viewpoint than sandbags, and glass does not necessarily have to be replaced in a nation at war and in a seller's market.

For a cleanly people, the most trying aspect of the war is the lack of soap. One two-inch square bar weekly is the ration, and that must suffice for everything from laundry to removing little Herman's grimy fingerprints from the woodwork. Hot baths are available only Saturdays and Sundays—when, as and if there is coal. Otherwise one waits a week. This is a modern war.

After looking long and earnestly at a seed catalog cover this morning, the office skeptic said, "It's a lie."

Now a couple of varieties of seaweed are used as substitutes for spinach. It seems uncalled-for. We have long felt that spinach was its own ersatz.

It would be boorish, after answering the census taker's 33 questions, not to ask, "and how are your folks?"

Advertising's Proud Story

Advertising, which is synonymous with top-flight merchandising, is to undergo an examination at the hands of the Federal Trade Commission to determine its value to the national economy. Many construe this as an attack on the system of private enterprise which, even though it may at times bog down, has taken America to the peaks of human achievement.

Advertising has had nothing to fear from an impartial and searching examination. It has been the life blood of the American living standard, which indisputably and despite all its faults is the world's highest.

Advertising freed America—Thomas Paine's "Common Sense" was in effect an advertising brochure. It advertised freedom to be bought at a price and fired the length and breadth of the land to pay that price of blood for a heritage for its sons. It swerved George Washington from fidelity to the crown to the banners of independence.

Advertising carried American goods to the farthest corners of the world while the land was still young, and builded the greatest merchandising economy in all history. This even before Adam Smith's gospel was wined in human progress.

Advertising framed the warp at wool of mass production—highly paid production—as it spread the benefits of the great and small inventions that have made possible a greater and greater volume of goods and foods that cost less and less and sell more and more; unit costs went down and wages went higher and higher, reaching at the same time a greater percentage of the total population.

Advertising has made possible high wages, not high wages advertising.

Advertising enables the consumer to purchase more goods for less money because only by its message can the volume that lowers costs be attained and maintained.

Advertising is but a small part of the total cost of consumer products. If it were not a part of the merchandising program, in one form or another, products, by not reaching the volume market, would cost more, never less.

Advertising has proved itself—simply by the fact that industries and ways of life that cannot advertise are the maladjusted elements of society. The farmer, for example, cannot advertise to a volume market unless he is joined in a co-operative selling unit, or, by first advertising in a small way, becomes a large and independent operator.

Advertising, the trade commission will find, if it does not already know, is as vital to commerce as railroads or trucks. It does not distribute, but it makes distribution possible, spreading the bounties of a few men to all men.

Advertising can present a proud story, and should welcome the opportunity to bring it home to America, which it has helped build, brick-by-brick, from its very foundation in the dark and dank days when another George ruled England.

But how does all this establish that Stalin's cause is right? He only proves that there are more Russians—which we already knew.

The Miracle Drug

The story of science is usually a recital of heartbreakingly slow progress, of years of patient research and of gradual evolution of better modes of achievement.

This is particularly true of medical science. Hence the thrill and romance to be found in the story of the sulfanilamide drugs. The record of sulfapyridine in the treatment and cure of pneumonia speaks for itself.

Of 190 cases treated at the County General hospital in Milwaukee, with sulfapyridine, only eight proved fatal, whereas, prior to the use of this drug, the pneumonia death rate at that hospital ranged from 35 to 42 per cent.

Now comes a new development of the drug which promises even better results. This is sulfathiazole. The advantage it possesses is that it does not produce the nausea and headaches and vomiting that occur frequently when sulfapyridine is used. In some cases the reaction is so severe that treatment has to be stopped and it is in such cases that most of the deaths occur.

Unfortunately, the supply of sulfathiazole is so small it is not yet available for general use. So far it has been used only in a few research clinics.

But this handicap will, undoubtedly, be soon overcome. The day is almost here when science can record another great triumph, the defeat of pneumonia, a disease which has for years reaped a fearful harvest of death. When a single drug discovery brings about an 88 per cent reduction in death toll from any disease, science has registered an achievement which, as news, outranks all the war and political developments of a generation.

Editorial of the Day

USE FOR GOLDFISH.

(From the Memphis Commercial Appeal)
Since college boys stopped swallowing them, we have lapsed into our former state of feeling that goldfish served no useful purpose in this world. Comes now, however, Mr. Henry Heisel, of Tillamook, Ore., to claim his goldfish as an infallible fishing bait. When the glittering yet stupid pets of Mr. Heisel swim near the top of their bowl and feed greedily, fish in the rivers are biting. When the goldfish haunt the bottom of their bowl, fishing is poor.

The Tillamook anglers now consult the "crystal bowl" of goldfish to decide whether to go fishing or stay at home and tell interesting lies about what happened when they were fishing. The original piece about it was written by a fisherman, and so we pass it along without recommendation or denial, though we have an idea it probably is what it sounds as though it were.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

SIGNS OF BRUSH-OFF

WASHINGTON, March 6.—A minor but suggestive mystery of summer to Mussolini. Welles delivered the message in secret, but its existence, if not its contents, was promptly disclosed by the Italian foreign office. This incident, like Mussolini's refusal to use his excellent English in talking to Welles, was a sign that the President's emissary got the brush-off in Rome.

Being intended only as an introduction of Welles, the message was entirely innocuous except for a passing reference to previous proposals made by the President. But this reference was not innocuous, for the proposals recalled by it, contained in clearest form in the President's message to Hitler and Mussolini of last April, were exceedingly important.

"I propose," wrote the President at that time, "that if (assurance against aggression) is given, two essential problems shall promptly be discussed. In those discussions the government of the United States will gladly take part."

"The discussions I have in mind relate to the most effective manner through which the peoples of the world can obtain progressive relief from the crushing burden of armament. Simultaneously, the government of the United States would be prepared to take part in discussions looking toward opening avenues of international trade, to the end that every nation may be enabled to buy and sell on equal terms in the world market, as well as to possess assurance of obtaining the materials and products of peaceful economic life."

MIXING MOTIVES

Renewing these proposals was obviously not the only motive of the Welles mission. The President hoped the mere presence of Welles in Europe might tend to delay the total warfare predicted for the spring; and there is some reason to believe this hope may not be disappointed. The President also wanted a round-up report on the thinking in Rome, Berlin, Paris and London. Dispatches from the embassies have been contradictory, and with respect to those from Rome and Berlin, have not been based on the first-hand evidence Welles has been able to obtain. Welles' personal talks with all the German leaders, unpleasant as some of those talks apparently were, sufficiently justified his expedition.

Among all the different motives for sending Welles, others may have been more compelling. But the intention to renew the April proposals was certainly the most significant. Welles was instructed to use his discretion, and to go no further than seemed wise. Yet it means a great deal that if circumstances proved favorable, Welles was empowered to say in effect, "If you people in Europe will get together to compose your political differences, we in the United States will join in the parallel economic settlement and disarmament which are essential to a world return to common sense."

TOWARD PEACE AND TRADE

This just about sums up the ultimate objectives of present American foreign policy. On the one hand it embodies the distinction between political commitments outside this hemisphere, which the policy-shapers are determined not to make, and economic commitments, which they are willing to make if the return appears adequate and public opinion permits. On the other hand, the emphasis of disarmament and an opening of trade, suggests the kind of post-war world to achieve which American policy is now aimed.

The principle of the distinction is undeniably sound. The aim will be approved by every right-thinking person. In fact, sending Welles abroad to renew the April proposals has but one defect—a slight air of unreality. Even last April, when war had not begun, it seemed somewhat unrealistic to offer disarmament and an opening of trade as prizes to persuade the dictators to behave. Now that Hitler has precipitated a second world war, the unreality is only increased. Germany is a military autocracy. Offering Hitler disarmament and an opening of trade is a little like peddling Bibles in a brothel.

It may be said that Hitler would be tempted by assurance, supported by this country, that Germany could "buy and sell on equal terms in the world market and obtain the materials and products of peaceful economic life." Germany's need for raw materials has been one of his great cries, and this assurance implies a conditional promise that the raw materials would be forthcoming. Yet, in the end, if disarmament and an opening of trade are the objectives, the only dictator who could succeed if the dictator states are transformed into free and peaceful economies. This transformation can only be accomplished if England and France are victorious. Which is why the Welles mission seems considerably less logical than another aspect of American policy—aid of the democracies by methods short of war.

Inconsistency

Of the Irate.

One of the most remarkable illustrations of the inconsistency of people has been given me during the past week, or ten days, in a number of letters which have reached this desk.

Unwittingly, every one of the letters, though intended to disagree on a definite, have agreed completely with the original contention!

It is all about pensions for veterans, and their dependents, of the World War I.

There was an editorial, the gist of its argument being that it was wrong to seek pensions for people who had suffered no injury or loss by reason of war, or army, service, while veterans, and their dependents, who had suffered, pitifully and woefully, were still inadequately recompensed.

Then there was a letter from a reader, agreeing with this viewpoint.

Both editorial and letter pointed out that there were quite a number of youths in 1917 who were drafted into army service who never went across seas and who actually benefited by the physical and educational training they received in the army cantonments.

Now comes a letter that is true. For many a lad drafted from the loafing corners of the cities, the wartime army training was as beneficial as a batch in a CCC camp is today.

And objection was raised to spending money on such as these. "One can get a pension for a greater benefit than is paid in giving pensions to the widows or dependents of such individuals."

Give All

To Incapacitated.

It was flatly stated that no one would raise one whisper of objection to whatever cost was involved in giving pensions to those men who had been wounded, physically or mentally, or who had suffered persons of disadvantage or less, because of their war service, either overseas or in this country. Or to their dependents, either. Or their widows. If they are genuine widows of disabled or injured war veterans. There is no sense in pensioning a woman just because she married a veteran 10 or 15 or 20 years after his discharge, and he later died. That opens the door to too many women who might make a marriage, today, to a veteran of a war of 20 years gone, a cold-blooded means of getting a little income for life.

But the funny thing is that every letter, ostensibly of disagreement, so far received, has actually indorsed the argument.

They have all come from veterans, from their wives, or widows, or mothers, or sons, or daughters. And, in each case, they have been about veterans who did suffer hideously because of war.

The letters advise visits to the Hospital 48 to see the wrecks of mankind there.

They tell of men who have been unable to do a normal day's work because of shell shock. Of children denied the education they would have had if their father had not lost an arm or a leg or a lung, in battle.

And they heatedly declare that it is wrong to criticize pensions for such men.

Of course it is. That's exactly what the editor and the letter from a reader, said.

It is wrong to deny, or to hold to insufficient amount, pensions to such people. And it's wrong to spend money on pensions for those who did not suffer, did not lose, when the same money should be going to those who need it so desperately.

Thanks, to all who have written, for agreeing with our views, even though, when you wrote, you didn't understand the argument.

We're Insulted

By the Satevepost!

The good old Satevepost has gone and attempted to ridicule our city! Or, perhaps, our people. See the cartoon on page 37 of the March 9 issue, if you doubt it.

It depicts a couple, in an automobile, entering the outskirts of a city. A sign on a pole reads, "Atlanta City Limits." And, immediately below, a traffic sign reads "No U-all Turns."

Atlanta is not so ungrammatical. She might, conceivably, say "No Turns, U-all." Which would be quite correct. And I suppose it is impossible to infiltrate into thick Yankee skulls the propriety of the words "you all" as used by southerners. Once and for all time, please, "you all" is eternally plural and is never used in the singular, by a southerner.

Perhaps the cruder northerner may misunderstand when a southerner, talking to him alone, asks "How are you all?" The cruder northerner may imagine the reference is to him alone, singular. Never grasping, of course, that the southerner, in his warm and gentle courtesy, is inquiring after the well-being of all the family and friends of his vis a vis, by simply adding the "all."

Oh well. There are two people in the automobile in the cartoon. So the plural "U-all" is correct, in this instance.

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Sunday, March 7, 1916:
"Some two dozen ball players will be scamparing around over the sod at Ponce de Leon park next week, having received instructions from Manager Billy Smith, of the Crackers, to report here for spring training between March 10 and 15."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Friday, March 7, 1890:
"Our readers at a distance will be glad to learn that the White and West End street cars go bumping along as serenely as ever, shaking up the aged and infirm, and giving joy to the world in general."

The Army

And Its Needs

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—Here are a few sketchy excerpts from the testimony of army general staff officers before a senate subcommittee on appropriations:

The President's executive order . . . directed that the enlisted strength of the regular army be increased to 227,000 . . . national guard to 235,000 (total 462,000 or about what Finland had).

With the increase . . . we have been enabled to form . . . five new triangular infantry divisions (peace strength each, 8,500 as compared with 30,000 in World War, or a total of 42,500 men) and also . . . corps troops for one army corps . . .

We have conserved manpower and have been able to conserve fire-power with modern weapons . . .

Question: "How many anti-aircraft guns will you have at the end of this fiscal year?"

Answer: "I would prefer not to put a figure in the record."

Question: "The statement is made in the press that the United States will thus have fewer anti-aircraft guns than is provided for the defense of the city of London?"

Answer: "I understand that there are 144 heavy anti-aircraft and 48 medium caliber anti-aircraft in the defenses of London. The guns we have on order will be delivered by September, 1941. All but 48 will be delivered by November 1940." (This figures a rate of delivery for the last 48 of a little over four guns a month.)

Question: "How many new rifles have you?"

Answer: "We have got all five divisions equipped." (42,500 men, not all riflemen.) "I do not believe that this ought to go into the record . . ."

Question: "Well it has all been in the press . . . that you have got about 22,000 or 23,000. I want to know whether that is so?" "They are being made." (Here the questioner, Senator Byrnes, mildly blew up and got this) "We are getting them at the rate of 4,000 a month and we have on hand 24,000 or 25,000 (for 42,500 men). By June 1942, we expect to complete those now on order, 149,628." (This figures a rate from all sources of more than 5,400 a month. It probably includes a speed-up at the end.) But listen to this:

Contradictory Answer: "Right now in the Springfield armory the production is 200 per day (4,000 a month—not 4,000). We have an order for 65,000 with the Winchester Company. They will not come into maximum production for a period of 18 months; but we expect them to complete the contract for 65,000 by June 30, 1942."

Figures Answer: "When we brought these five divisions into the field (only 42,500 men) . . . they had never been equipped sufficiently to reach their peace allowance of motor transportation. Divisions could not function as divisions, nor corps as corps . . ."

The new streamlined organization which is going to expose fewer men but have more fire-power "with modern weapons."

Country I do not take these fragments from the record to criticize the general staff. I know what they are going up against—a political civilian overhead. But if this column ever needed any confirmation of its repeated assertions that the country is being kidded and that we have no modern or even usable army either in existence or in reasonable prospect—here it is.

It simply hasn't got the stuff. It isn't prepared to get the stuff. Right now, in an election year, there is such apathy or opposition to appropriations to modernize it that it probably will be set back another full year in the great "economy" drive. Billions for boondoggling but not enough for modern defense to equip one decent army corps.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"OPENED BY CENSOR"

Yesterday a letter arrived from friends in Belfast, Ireland. It had been opened and resealed with the censor's stamp.

Nothing had been deleted. It was merely a letter telling of a great grief in the family.

There was one paragraph which tells the inside story of the war—and the real story—the one which will win or lose the war. It was this:

"The war continues to hurt business and many people suffer as a result. Anything may be expected in the line of wholesale closing down of small shops. Only today we had a gentleman call to see if we could give him an offer on his stock. Those who will feel it most are those who gave too much credit and, of course, those who got too much. Money is becoming very 'tight' and prices are soaring beyond all conception."

There is the real crux of the war.

Prices are soaring. Business is bad. Independent shopkeepers will have to close. Food, clothing, the essentials, all cost more. Luxuries are beyond the reach of the average person.

The most important "front" of any war is the home front. Not the combat fronts.

THE GERMAN POLICY Germany with a controlled economy has had a price rise of less than 3 per cent as against an average of about 34 per cent in the Allied nations.

Germany, of course, is much more severely rationed. And in Germany the small shops are suffering, but not to the extent of those in the Allied nations. Germany, with a controlled currency, has been on a low plane of business for years. They are scaled to it. Germany has been on a war basis ever since Hitler came to power, with business a secondary consideration to the army and its plans.

The Allied effort is to starve out Germany, as was done in the first World War. It was won as much by the blockade as by shells and bullets.

Germany's plans apparently are to seek to wait out England.

Germany hasn't any cash reserves.

The war is costing England alone some $20,000,000 per day.

The German plan apparently is to cause England to spend her cash reserves.

At the same time Germany will continue the effort to alienate the French people from England; will seek by propaganda and by force at sea to weaken the will of the Allied peoples.

That is one reason why the war hasn't flamed into death and destruction.

When it flames it will flame in both camps. So, it becomes quite obvious that Germany plans to peek away at the British lifeline; to reduce British shipping as much as possible; to fight more on the home front than on the battle front.

It will become, as it did in the first World War, a test of the will of the peoples. The Allied will was all but gone when America entered that first World War. It should be recalled that, as the fourth year of the war got under way, Germany came nearer a triumph than at any time since that first drive across the Marne.

THE PRESSURE ON AMERICA The United States very properly has a law which forbids the extending of credits to any nation which defaulted on its payments of loans made during the first World War

SUNDAY SCHOOL CREDITS FAVORED

Editor Constitution: The Silhouettes column in Monday's paper interested me very much. I accept the invitation to agree or disagree. It so happens that I disagree and herewith present my side of the case. This is just the opinion of a young man not many years out of the Atlanta schools. In the first place let us try to place ourselves where we can get the pupil's viewpoint. After all, his viewpoint is the one to consider. Let's take the case of Jimmy Smith, age 15, student at Tech High school. Jimmy watches with admiration as the band comes marching by. He knows that each player in the organization is receiving units and fraction of units for blowing a horn and keeping step with the others. But Jimmy doesn't play an instrument and, therefore, must earn his units elsewhere.

There is a wrestling class, too, that gives the same amount of credit to students who engage in this activity. Now wrestling is a strenuous sport and requires a good physique, but Jimmy isn't built that way. He wishes he was, so he could learn the art of self-defense. Again he must go to the classroom to take some extra course to get his units. His schedule is already crammed.

One day Jimmy sees by the papers that he can receive credit for going to Sunday school if the committee passes on it. Oh, boy! Now he can have an extra study period at school and won't have to study so much at home. This will give him time to go to Sunday school and study the lesson, too.

Jimmy is not a Christian, but he is open-minded and wants to learn about the Man who teaches about on Sunday mornings. There are other characters that will interest him, too. He'll find a lot of history and current events discussed in the churches that will help him in his school studies. All in all, he thinks it's a swell idea. There is something else, though, that Jimmy doesn't know about. He may find a Saviour and a Master at Sunday school that he's not likely to find elsewhere. He will discover a better way of living. He will become a better citizen, a better neighbor and a better person. He will find a regular attendance. He can't get all these things in the public school.

Now let's consider your opinions for a moment. Perhaps there is a family who does not care to go to church or send their children. There's nothing in the proposal that states that the child must go. Therefore, I can't see that this would rob anyone of his constitutional rights. It might be pointed out, too, that there is no clause in the proposal making it necessary for the pupil to become a member of the church. There are other extracurricular activities and studies for those who prefer not to attend the Bible school. As I see it, this is simply a method to add a course in religion to the schedule without the expense of new teachers. Colleges have these courses, why not grammar and high schools?

No, sir, it won't hurt anybody to be exposed to the gospel, even if they are bribed a little.

MIKE WARR.

To Hold Services

BISHOP JOHN F. O'HARA.

BISHOP J. F. O'HARA TO VISIT BENNING

Army-Navy Chaplain Will Conduct Services at Georgia Post.

Bishop John F. O'Hara, Catholic chaplain of the Army-Navy diocese, will arrive in Atlanta Saturday morning where he will be met by an army escort and driven to Fort Benning for a week end visit to the army post.

Bishop O'Hara, until recently head of Notre Dame University, will assist in hearing of confessions Saturday afternoon and night at the Fort in the Post and First division chapels. He will speak Sunday morning to the children's catechism classes and at 9 o'clock will offer mass in the First division. A reception for enlisted and commissioned personnel will follow.

At noon the bishop will speak over the Columbus radio station, WRBL, and then will attend a reception for visiting clergy from Georgia and Alabama. At 4 o'clock he will administer the sacrament of confirmation in the Post chapel, closing with solemn pontifical benediction.

Following these services, Bishop O'Hara will hold open house at the Catholic chaplain's quarters for Catholic non-commissioned officers, their wives and families and for the entire enlisted personnel. A reception will be given in his honor at 6 o'clock at the Polo Hunt Club and a testimonial dinner is scheduled to follow.

After offering mass at 6:30 o'clock Monday morning in the Post chapel, he will leave for New York.

NO UNITED WORLD SEEN BY HOOVER

Ex-President Discovers Post-War Idealism.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 6.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover called "sheer nonsense" today "this talk about a world of idealism after a war."

Addressing 3,000 Rutgers University students, faculty members, and their friends, Hoover said "there will be no united world after this war."

In response to a query why the Finnish relief fund was not used to send arms and volunteers to Finland, Hoover said it was the function of a government to supply war materials and troops. Private citizens, he said, could bolster the morale of belligerents with whom they sympathized by providing shelter and care for women and children.

ADVERTISING SEEN AS SOCIAL SERVICE

Parlin Tells Club It Makes for Better Goods at Lower Cost.

Advertising renders the American people a social service by forcing manufacturers to strive continuously for better quality at lower cost, Charles C. Parlin, who retired two years ago as director of the commercial research division of the Curtis Publishing Company, told the Atlanta Advertising Club yesterday.

"Manufacturers compete with each other in quality first and price second, each vying with the other to see who can produce the best product at the lowest cost to the consumer. They require no policing, each has a strong self-interest to maintain the highest quality for the brand on which his prosperity rests."

"Hence, advertised products grow better and cost less. Probably the greatest social service of advertising is that it furnishes an incentive to greater effort. Advertising, by creating desires for new things, has produced enthusiastic endeavor on the part of millions and from that endeavor has come the marvelous development of our national wealth."

He urged that all advertisers test all advertising propaganda by the same measuring rod the consumer does: "Facts and common sense."

ROBBERY SUSPECT RETURNED TO OMAHA

OMAHA, March 6.—(AP)—Herman Banning, 36, charged in the $30,000 diamond robbery at a jewelry salesman here last November, was returned today to the county jail from which he escaped in 1931.

With Banning in the custody of two United States deputy marshals was James Williams, 39, of Chicago. They were brought here from Nashville, Tenn. The two are held on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

PRIZE-INJURY VICTIM IS BACK IN HOSPITAL

PITTSFIELD, Mass., March 6.—(AP)—Carmelo Castanova, 15, of Lee, is back in the hospital again. Seven years ago he got hit by a truck, a year later, another truck hit him; three years ago he fell down two flights of stairs; last August he fell off a cliff, breaking both legs, both wrists, six ribs, and a hip. He got out at Christmas. This time he has a broken leg, suffered in a fall.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

If I were asked to make out a list of superlative nuisances, I would head the list with chain letters and chain postal cards. Other items in the list would include folks who pop chewing gum in public, folks with colds who sneeze and cough in everybody's face, folks who call up on the telephone to take a dirty dig without giving their names, folks who get out on the highway to hug and kiss and zig zag in front of traffic at the rate of 20 m. p. h., and so forth and so on, and overlooking that relatively small group, I'm glad to say, who delight to walk up and say, "I bet you can't remember my name."

But back to these chain letters and postal cards. It is my guess that most of the people who take the time and go to the expense of writing these letters and cards are not only very fine folks, but that they are sincere in what they are doing. For that, of course, we would be duly respectful and appreciative. But it is the idea, or lack of idea, back of the thing that "gets me down."

Who, for example, has the authority to start these things? Who is wise enough to know that unless a certain number of people write out a certain number of letters or cards that something or other will not happen? And why do these self-appointed prophets always conceal their identity?

The last one reads: "If you do not write 13 people by March 1, I have heard of a certain person, convalescent from a long time ago, who is in the hospital, ever received to the waste basket, but still they come! Various forms of racketeering have been discovered in these devices, and, in some instances, the authors have been apprehended."

One can only wish that those who take the time and go to the expense to promulgate this sort of propaganda might be induced to devote their time and money to the many practically constructive methods of meeting the needs of the passing days—causes in which one clearly understands what they are doing and frankly admits their identity in their effort.

Gripping Sub-Machine Gun, White Watches for Soviets

Newsman Keeps Sharp Lookout as He Nears Front.

By WILLIAM L. WHITE
Special Correspondent.

ON THE ARCTIC CIRCLE

FRONT (By Mail)—We turned north out of Rovaniemi and presently the road entered a forest, and some place near the town we passed over the Arctic circle. The forest was spruce, heavy with snow, and very beautiful in the brilliant light of a full moon, but the cold was bitter even under the thick robe of reindeer hide. The lieutenant in the front seat kept his sub-machine gun between his knees. I kept mine on my lap, propping its long magazine against the door handle of the car to keep it from sliding.

The lieutenant said we should not look at the scenery in the moonlight now, but should try to get some sleep, since we had had only two hours of it before starting. He said that as we neared the front we should not sleep, because there would be danger of meeting a Russian patrol, and we should be wide awake to get out of the car, or to handle our guns.

He also said that there would be no Russian planes until dawn, but if anything delayed us we might meet some, and we should know if one approached us in front because we could see it through the windshield.

In that case we should get out of the car and run for the woods at the side of the road. But if it approached us from behind, he said we might do what we liked, because then we would not know it was coming until the machine-gun bullets started coming through the car.

Because our feet were still warm it was possible to get about three hours sleep before dawn, which started to break about 7 o'clock with a faint gray streak along the southeastern horizon. In America we would have looked at this and said the sun will be up in half hour. But here above the Arctic circle that faint gray streak gets bigger very slowly for about three hours, and also moves slowly north. At about 10 o'clock you are sure dawn is coming instantly, for the gray gives way to pink and golden dawn clouds.

But these, instead of lasting 10 minutes, last two hours, and the sun appears in the sky—just a rim of it over the horizon at noon. But it never rises.

We were awake for this first dawn at 7, and now we got the machine guns ready. Now, O gentle reader, you may think you are ever mindful of the manifold moods and ever changing aspects of nature, but I assure you that you have never really looked at a forest with care until you have sat in the back seat of a Dodge with a cold sub-machine gun on your knees peering through the snow covered pines, to make sure that you see a Russian patrol ahead before it sees you.

CENSUS DIRECTOR ORDERS WISCONSIN CHARGES VOIDED

His Telegram Censures
District Manager After Cobbler Is Arrested on a Federal Warrant.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(AP) Census Director William L. Austin ordered Wisconsin census officials late today to withdraw charges against a Kenosha cobbler who was said to have refused to answer questions in a business survey.

The cobbler, James Rosselli, had agreed to answer the questions "so long as they are put to me politely." He was arrested on a federal warrant charging failure to give complete answers to a census taker and released on $200 bond.

Austin sent the following telegram to Donald M. Farris, census area manager at Racine:

"Withdraw Rosselli charges immediately. You have disregarded instructions that before taking legal action such cases must be submitted to Washington office for disposition. You will be held strictly responsible for this procedure. Instruct all district supervisors and enumerators accordingly. Acknowledge receipt of this telegram and confirm withdrawal of charges."

'Thatsa Gooda News, Itsa Fine,' Says Cobbler in Census Case

HARVARD, Ill., March 6.—(UP)—James Rosselli, the 250-pound Kenosha, Wis., cobbler accused of chasing a census taker, was advised tonight that government census authorities at Washington had ordered Wisconsin officials to withdraw charges against him and exclaim:

"Thatsa purty smart 'ing, huh?" Rosselli's first concern was for the $200 he had posted today with the United States commissioner at Milwaukee, to whom he had surrendered.

"I'm gonna send for the money right away. That was $200 cash I'm have to put down. Thatsa lotta money and I wanna back soon's I can."

Rosselli had been named in a federal warrant issued Monday on complaint of John W. Gorman, the census taker who said he was chased. Gorman charged that Rosselli refused to answer all questions, then took after me and chased me out of his shop. The incident, he said, occurred February 23. Rosselli denied Gorman's charges.

Rosselli, who served in the Italian army for five years during the World War and who became a naturalized citizen at Kenosha in 1927, was jubilant about the news. "Thatsa gooda news all right. Thatsa fine," he kept repeating.

He said that if Gorman came to his Kenosha shop to ask census questions, he would "gladly" answer them.

"But he's gotta be polite. 'I'm gonna treat him purty good, too, if he's come back. He help me a lot. My business pick up. Thatsa give me beeg advertise. I guess maybe the advertise is worth maybe $5,000 don't you think? Yes, thatsa purty good."

Immediately, You have disregarded instructions that before taking legal action such cases must be submitted to Washington office for disposition. You will be held strictly responsible for this procedure. Instruct all district supervisors and enumerators accordingly. Acknowledge receipt of this telegram and confirm withdrawal of charges."

A campaign for an early county primary, "very definite and apparently under cover," is being conducted, Mrs. J. D. Thomas, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, said yesterday in a letter to T. W. Moore, president of the Fulton county board of education.

Mrs. Thomas said the statement of the board at its February meeting that it is no longer pushing the campaign for the early primary proved "of great interest to the league," but added that she desired to learn who is pushing the early primary.

"We are sure that you are as interested in a democratic process as we are, and that you will co-operate with us in bringing into the open those who are sponsoring this campaign," Mrs. Thomas wrote. "The voters are entitled to this information."

TAX RATE CUT.
ELBERTON, Ga., March 6.—(AP) City council has cut the tax rate here five mills as a result of an increase of $75,000 in the assessed value of property. The increase was credited to new homes and business buildings.

GILBERT IS WINNER IN MERIWETHER RACE.
GREENVILLE, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Irvin Gilbert led the three-man race for the office of clerk of court in Meriwether county's primary yesterday, returns tabulated today showed.

Gilbert polled 2,362 against 1,511 of L. C. Clark and 329 for J. M. Guy.

John Head received 2,575 votes for ordinary, against 1,668 for Elsie O'Neal.

For sheriff, C. H. Collier, incumbent, led with 2,871 votes while his opponent, Hoke Smith, drew 1,365. In the three-man coroner's race, Idus Robertson Jr. received 1,641; H. D. Moore, 1,607 and M. H. Munn 355.

Tax Commissioner H. L. Culpepper, County School Superintendent C. A. Hudson, Treasurer L. Talmadge King and Surveyor Ernest Porch were unopposed.

GENEVA, March 6.—(AP)—The International Red Cross Prisoners' Bureau said today that its lists showed fewer than 300 Germans, 300 French and 150 British are held prisoners after more than six months of war.

Officials said they had "every reason to believe" their lists, corrected up to today, covered all soldiers, sailors and aviators captured by the three major powers to date.

COURT VERDICT TODAY AWAITED BY BETSEY

LOS ANGELES, March 6.—(AP) Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt goes to court tomorrow to learn whether Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould will grant her a divorce from James Roosevelt, the President's son. Evidence in the case was completed today.

Henry K. Cushing, Mrs. Roosevelt's brother and her corroborating witness, was too ill to testify. He completed a deposition today, in which he said of his sister:

"Her attitude was one of great mental distress. She had no desire for a divorce."

HOLC TAKES OVER BELLEVUE ESTATE

Benjamin Harvey Hill
Home Sold in LaGrange.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
LAGRANGE, Ga., March 6.—Bellevue, historic home of Benjamin Harvey Hill, orator and statesman, yesterday became the property of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, at public sale.

Purchase price was $6,200, it was revealed by J. Bender Terrell Jr., local HOLC representative. The federal agency had held a loan deed to the estate since 1934.

The home, which required two years in the building, was begun for Senator Hill in 1853 and is regarded by architects as one of the purest types of southern colonial architecture. Bought by Judge Jesse McLendon following the War Between the States, the home remained the property of the McLendon family until the death of Judge McLendon's youngest son, Millard F. McLendon, last June. No plans for disposition of the property were revealed by Mr. Terrell.

SEED TRYOUT SOUGHT IN LAURENS COUNTY

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
DUBLIN, Ga., March 6.—County Agent Harry Edge today was seeking a public-spirited farmer who would try out a new grass seed, called paspalum malacophyllum, an emigrant from South America that might be adapted to conditions here.

The agent has 10 pounds of the seed on hand. The grass is closely related to Dallis and Bahia grasses, grows rapidly, is palatable, and reseeds itself prolifically. It lacks underground stems, the station officials report.

Spring Sends Mindling to Great Heights

Atlanta's summer average temperatures for the past 20 years show only six summers were cooler than the 61-year June, July and August average of 77.3 degrees, and 1928 was almost average, with 77.2 degrees.

July, taken as the midsummer average in Atlanta, shows that the last three 10-year periods were increasingly hotter. If this sort of trend lasts, we're in for some real heat in the 1940's.

Here's Atlanta's summer heat shown in decades, the past three, and proving the each June, July and August for 10-year periods were hotter than the preceding era.

Spring is come to Atlanta, equinox or no equinox, sings George W. Mindling, United States weather meteorologist, as he surveys blue, windy March skies from atop the weather vane high above the new Post Office building. Officially, spring comes March 20 this year, but Mindling says budding trees, growing plants and warm weather denote spring, any time—the week with the calendar. So, on with your gay duds, guys and gals, and start turning your fancy. (Story on Page 1.)

DUTCH SUB SINKS: 27 MAKE ESCAPE

Is Rammed by Tug Boat in Harbor.

DENHELDER, The Netherlands, March 6.—(AP)—Three men were trapped, and 27 others made a dramatic escape today from the Netherlands submarine 0-11 when she was rammed and sunk by a Dutch tugboat in the Nieuwe Diep, Netherlands naval harbor.

Lieutenant Commander Goossens and 14 others were on deck. They swam to safety. The ship's oil tanks were emptied and half an hour later the submarine's conning tower emerged.

Goossens scrambled aboard from a rowboat and with assistance from inside opened a hatch. All but three of the imprisoned men escaped and were removed to a hospital.

RAILWAYS ACCUSE PIPE AND OIL FIRMS

Counter-Action Charges
Proposed Fuel Line Violates Statutes.

Railroads accused of violation of anti-trust laws by the Southeastern Pipe Line Company for attempting to block construction of an oil line from the Gulf of Mexico to Chattanooga, retaliated yesterday by lodging similar charges against the pipe line company in federal district court.

In addition, the railroads named the Gulf Oil Corporation and the Pure Oil Company as defendant parties. It was alleged that the Gulf Corporation owns 52 1-2 per cent of the stock of the Southeastern Pipe Line Company, and that the Pure Oil Company owns 47 1-2 per cent.

The oil companies, the railroads charge, are attempting to create a monopoly in the transportation and sale of certain oil products in violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws.

The railroads being sued by the pipe line company are the Southern, the Atlantic Coast Line, the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast, the Atlanta & West Point, the Seaboard, and the Central of Georgia.

Way Opened by Commissioners For $865,520 Highway Project

Right-of-Ways Ordered Obtained Immediately; WPA To Aid.

Fulton county commissioners yesterday opened the way for a $865,520.84 state and WPA road improvement program in the county by ordering that right-of-ways be obtained immediately for projects that have been held up because this action had not been taken.

This move was made at a meeting of the commissioners with members of the State Highway Board to discuss ways and means of speeding up the road program.

The total of $865,520.84 includes three projects on which work already has been started.

They are the Ben Hill-Douglasville, Jonesboro-Atlanta, and Atlanta-Marietta projects.

To Begin At Once.
As a result of the meeting yesterday work will begin immediately on the straightening and widening of the Roswell road. Approximately 150 men will be employed on this project, which covers 1.859 miles.

Another project on which work will begin as soon as right-of-ways are obtained is the Palmetto-Cascade road, which covers 1.698 miles.

The action of the commissioners also will make it possible to begin work soon on grading, paving, and sidewalks on Bankhead highway for a distance of 6.411 miles.

Another Project.
A proposed project now being worked up by the highway department and on which construction will begin as soon as plans and estimates are completed is the Fairburn-Fayetteville road. This work, covering 5.401 miles, includes grading and draining.

G. T. McDonald, assistant state highway engineer, said the highway department also is preparing plans for completing the grading and paving of State Route 85 between Atlanta and Fayetteville. As soon as the necessary plans are prepared, he said, construction would be initiated and in all probability would require between 200 and 400 laborers.

When all of the projects get under way, some 1,200 men will be employed on the 34 miles of improvement.

Action Urged.
In urging that the county act immediately in getting the right-of-ways, Ed L. Almond, chairman of the Fulton county commission, declared "this is one time when we don't want a lot of talking—we want some action."

Robert L. MacDougall, state WPA administrator; Courtland Gilbert, secretary of the Fulton County Planning Commission, and state highway engineers met with the commissioners and highway board.

Chairman Almond will head a delegation to Washington next week to confer with federal authorities on a long-range program of road construction and expansion in the metropolitan area.

ARTILLERY GENERAL ARRIVES AT BENNING

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
COLUMBUS, Ga., March 6.—Brigadier General Robert H. Lewis, United States Army, arrived yesterday at the camp of the First Division at Fort Benning to assume duties as chief of the division's artillery section. He was received with a salute of 11 guns, sounding of flutes and ruffles, playing of the general's march by the First Division band, and by officers of the artillery section. Fifth and Seventh Field Artillery regiments, headed by Colonel Raymond Lee, who has been acting as chief of the section for the past two months.

Before coming to Fort Benning, General Lewis was in command of the 77th Field Artillery at Fort D. A. Russell, Texas.

STORK OUTDISTANCES ACTOR RAY MILLAND

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—The stork, coming two weeks before it was due, beat Movie Actor Ray Milland to a hospital and left a six-and-a-half-pound son six and a half hours ahead of the actor.

The actor, vacationing in Idaho, was advised at 9 o'clock last night that Mrs. Muriel Weber Milland had gone to a hospital. He drove 200 miles to Boise, chartered a plane to Salt Lake City and upon arrival there at 3:30 o'clock this morning learned by telephone the child was born. Milland flew in from the Utah capital.

ROOSEVELT PEACE PRAISED BY ARNALL

Georgian Non-Committal on Third Term After White House Visit.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—After conferring with President Roosevelt at the White House yesterday Attorney General Ellis Arnall, of Georgia, was non-committal today on the prospects of the chief executive accepting a third-term nomination.

Asked if he thought Mr. Roosevelt would again head the Democratic ticket this year, Mr. Arnall said:

"Throughout the world the war holds the center of the stage. The leadership, forethought and dynamic ability of our great President has kept our nation from becoming embroiled. As long as Mr. Roosevelt, who enjoys so largely the respect of the people, remains President the United States will continue committed to a policy of peace and security."

Asked if Mr. Roosevelt, who has just returned from a Caribbean cruise, looked like a candidate for re-election, Mr. Arnall replied:

"He looked as brown as a berry and as tanned as a sailor."

$17,000,000 FUND RELEASED TO STATE

Administrator Carmody took the position that inasmuch as the program for highways already had been approved the agency would proceed with concurrence in the formal contracts entered into by the present highway board.

In Atlanta, Governor Rivers said that Allen Johnston, chief counsel for the public works agency, had concurred in an official opinion of Attorney General Arnall that regardless of the outcome of the Miller case in the courts, two of the three members now sitting on the highway board are legally qualified for office. Johnston is a former regional administrator of the WPA and is widely known in Georgia. The highway board has been held up by the federal roads administration, a unit of Carmody's agency.

The Governor continued to maintain silence on his plans for answering a civil contempt of court citation given him by Judge Bascom Deaver, of the middle Georgia federal district court, for failure to comply with an injunction order which would have permitted the ousted Miller to return to the highway board. The contempt citation is returnable tomorrow at Columbus but it has been generally understood that Rivers will ignore the citation as he has ignored all other court orders obtained by Miller.

Backing for Rivers.
Litigation instituted by Miller in the state court is now before the state supreme court for adjudication and it was in support of these state court successes that Miller sought aid of the federal courts.

Advised of the developments yesterday, Miller said "I am naturally glad the funds have been released."

"The 1939-40 federal aid program funds were allocated to specific projects by the Highway Board while I was chairman," he said, "and were approved by the Bureau of Public Roads at that time."

"The Governor was requested by me to grant authority to advertise several of these projects for contract during September, October and November but my requests were refused. Many of these projects are needed badly."

Talmudic Tales By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the ancient legends and philosophy found in the Talmud and folklore of the Jewish people. From time to time David Morantz will also answer in this column questions he has been asked on the religion, customs, ceremonies, institutions, etc., of the Jews.)

THE APE AND THE GOLD PIECES.

Asaph was a very poor but pious Jew who eked out a bare existence as a private Hebrew teacher.

All of his meager earnings he turned over to his good wife, who managed to run the household thereon and save a little each week so that when Passover came they could buy the necessary extra provisions and wine, as well as new clothing for the entire family. At Passover, if at no other time of the year, the Jew tries to buy new clothing to celebrate his joyous festival which commemorates the deliverance of their forefathers from Egyptian bondage.

However, this year had been a most difficult one. Asaph had earned barely enough to buy food, much less anything for Passover. He did not lose faith, though, but worked as hard as ever and every evening he sat up until past midnight reading and studying the Torah by the dim light of the lamp.

One night, shortly before Passover, while thus engrossed in study, a large, dark, hairy object came crashing through his window and fell in a heap on the floor near him.

With a cry of terror he sprang and I am glad to know that the signing of contracts for the work can now be done."

Observers here pointed out that the Carmody statement releasing the federal funds indicated strong backing for Rivers by the federal government inasmuch as the administrator said the personnel of the highway board in his opinion was "a matter of determination by the officials of the state or by the courts." This indicated that the administration will deal only with officials recognized by Rivers until the highest courts have ruled them ineligible to hold office.

The Carmody announcement was made in Washington 30 minutes after Rivers arrived in Atlanta. On being informed that the federal administrator had announced his decision, Rivers said he had been given every assurance before leaving the national capital. He said that he had instructed Attorney General Arnall to see to it that the federal administrator would handle the details. Rivers said he planned to make no announcement of his visit to Carmody until the administrator made public his decision.

In Washington, Attorney General Arnall said in a statement that he was authorized to say that highway board personnel "is a matter to be determined by the Governor of Georgia until adjudication by the courts of last resort."

"State Matter."
The Arnall statement follows: "After conferences with proper federal authorities, I am authorized to say that two definite conclusions are to be drawn from Mr. Carmody's announcement: (1) Federal highway funds totaling over $17,000,000 are released to Georgia, and (2) the personnel of the state highway board, in the Federal Works Administration's judgment, is properly a matter to be determined by the Governor of Georgia until final adjudication by the courts of last resort."

"I am gratified that the people of our state will not suffer loss of federal funds by reason of the unfortunate highway row. The welfare of our state should always come before political controversy."

Carmody Statement.
The statement of Carmody announcing the release follows in full: "Governor Rivers of Georgia has called on me with reference to the granting of public road funds to the state, which according to his information were withheld pending the outcome of litigation in the courts of Georgia and the United States with reference to the membership on the highway board of that state."

"An inquiry at the Public Roads Administration discloses that no funds have been so withheld. Concurrence in awards of certain road contracts and negotiations for co-operative agreements between the Public Roads Administration and the state of Georgia with respect thereto are now pending. These contracts relate to projects included in programs approved prior to the controversy over membership on the board."

Regular Procedure.
"In order that the people of Georgia may not be deprived of the funds to which they are entitled, the public roads administration is prepared to take whatever steps may be necessary to effectuate construction and payment under these approved programs. The actual payment of federal funds to Georgia for grants in aid for highways would be made, as in all other states, by way of vouchers which will be subject to the imbursements on audited vouchers, after construction. These same meticulous examination as has characterized the operations of the public roads administration."

"The federal works agency will take no sides in the controversy as to the membership of the Highway Board of Georgia. That is a matter for determination by the officials of the state or by the courts. Ample time will be provided by the procedure stated for that determination to be made."

Stone Walls DO a Prison Make, Iron Bars a Cage--Tattnall Poet

Georgia's "Alcatraz of the Pine Woods" is developing its own poet laureate.

Some prisoners prefer hacksaws and files in their efforts to get out of prison, but bald J. G. Ashley, alias Jim Mordcau, of Tattnall prison, will take his sharp poetic phrases.

Maybe it's the influence of spring, but Ashley is becoming particularly prolific in turning out his sonnets, most of which seem to be addressed to Downing Musgrove, executive secretary to Governor Rivers.

Last week Ashley sent Musgrove a few sample stanzas asking him to make a plea to Governor Rivers. Yesterday more verses came from the prison genius. Here they are:

"I think I had better switch To high-powered hypnotism; from his chair but when he heard loud raucous laughter outside the house, he realized it was just a guessemong by some rowdies of the neighborhood."

His wife, alarmed by the noise, had come rushing into the room but stopped, terrified, at the sight of the horrible looking creature lying at their feet.

When Asaph had quieted her fears, he said:

"We cannot leave this body here in the house. Let us carry it out into the yard and tomorrow we shall dispose of it."

It was too heavy to lift but each one grasped a foot and started dragging it toward the door, when all of a sudden several gold coins dropped out of the ape's mouth. As they pulled and jerked the heavy body, more gold coins came rolling out.

After they had dragged the body from the house, Asaph came in and gathered the gold coins scattered over the floor, intending to turn them over to the authorities the next day.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
COLUMBUS, Ga., March 6.—Russell county (Alabama) officers today pressed their investigation into the death of Mrs. Myrtle Jackson, who was found brutally murdered Saturday in a hole near Pittsview. She was beaten about the face and head, and choked. Her husband, James Jackson, and his Negro helper, William Banks, are being held in the Russell county jail on murder charges. Mrs. Jackson, who was about 60, went to Pittsview Friday to purchase groceries. Her body was found Saturday afternoon. The groceries were found about 150 yards from the body.

What's the use of soiling so many hanks, trying to blow mucus out of stopped-up nostrils? It only piles up the laundry bill. And remember, a lot of violent blowing only makes your nose more sore, red, unsightly, and it very often injures the delicate membranes.

A more economical and gentler way to relieve congestion in your nostrils due to a cold is to insert a little Mentholum.

SEASONAL EXPORT OF COTTON PASSES 5,000,000 BALES

Shipments Reach 1937
Status: War Demands and Subsidy Program
Credited for Orders.

NEW ORLEANS, March 6.—(P)—Seasonal exports of American cotton crossed the 5,000,000-bale mark today for the first time since April, 1937.

Shipments abroad since the beginning of the current cotton season, August 1, reached 5,020,383 bales, or 2,297,057 bales more than was exported during the same period last season.

The European war and its attendant demand for increased cotton products, together with the United States government's export subsidy program which went into effect last July, were principal factors behind the better foreign demand for American growths.

Figures by the New Orleans Cotton Exchange showed that the United States exported 738,666 bales during February, an increase of 450,244 bales over the same month last year.

Dealers in spot cotton were heartened by the fact that of February shipments, 202,613 bales went to the Orient despite the abrogation of the trade treaty with Japan. In February, 1939, only 86,059 bales were exported to the Orient.

Local trade circles predicted the season's shipments of cotton would total more than 6,500,000 bales, and pointed to the 134,913 bales on shipboard awaiting clearance at New Orleans, Houston and Galveston as an indication that shipments would continue large during the next several weeks.

Some observers believed European and Far Eastern demand would bring the 1939-1940 export total to possibly 7,000,000 bales.

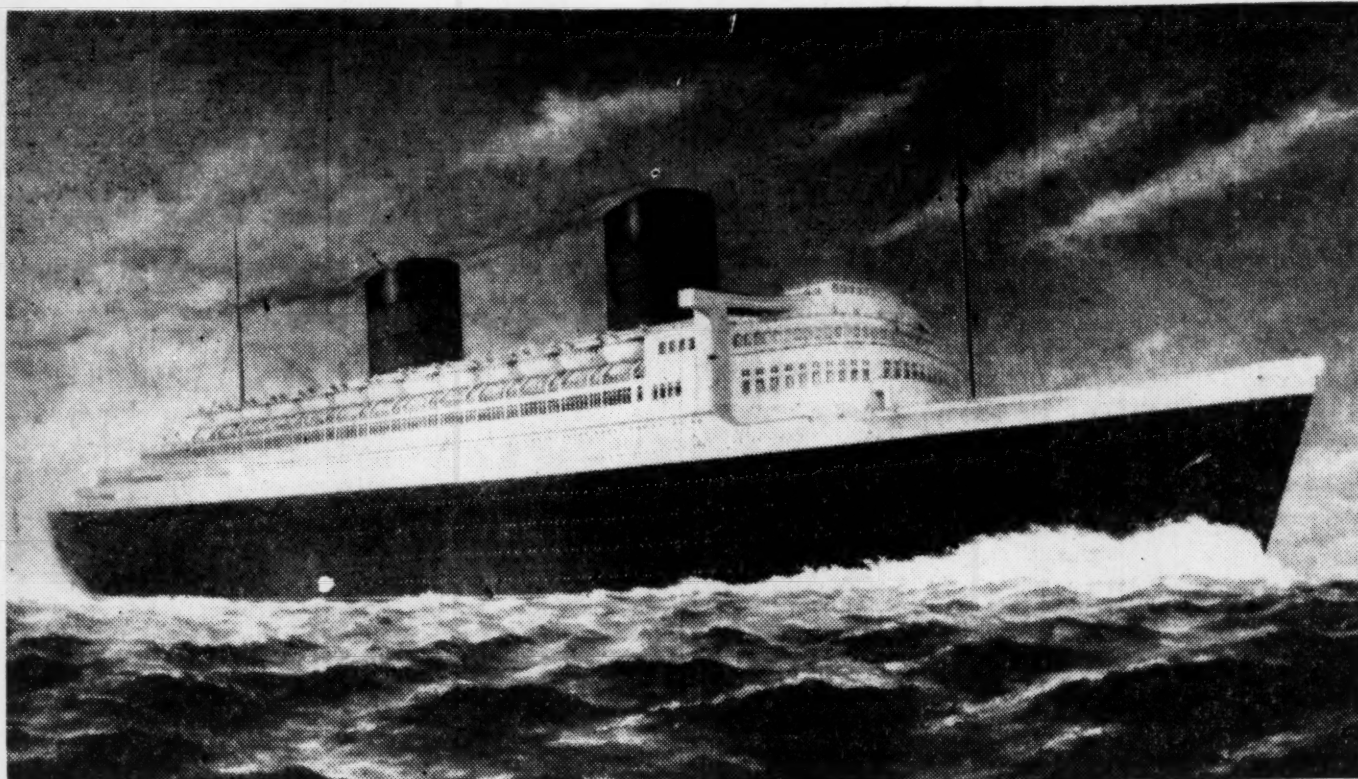

The increased export movement necessarily would reduce materially the large United States carry-over from the previous season.

WHITE HOUSE GUARD INCREASE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P)—A secret service request for 20 additional policemen to insure better protection of the White House was approved today by the house committee on public buildings.

Frank J. Wilson, secret service chief, testified that the White House guards had been aware of an "increased hazard," beginning last October 1. He did not amplify his reference to October 1—a month after the start of the European war.

Biggest Ship in World Nears New York After Foiling U-Boat

The British liner Queen Elizabeth, built at a cost of $28,750,000, and the biggest ship afloat, neared New York yesterday after a hazardous but brilliant voyage across the Atlantic ocean. The vessel was expected to dock today. It made its secret run without event, although the Nazis would have gone the limit to sink or capture it as a prize. London circles said the decision to send the ship to the United States was because in New York harbor it would be safe from German bombers.

REMINGTON ARMS INDICTED IN 'PLOT'

U. S. Charges Company,
Mexicans Conspired To Violate Neutrality Act.

HOUSTON, Texas, March 6.—(P)—The federal government charged today the Remington Arms Company, conspiring with two Mexican army officers, violated the neutrality act through unlicensed export of arms.

The allegation was contained in a federal grand jury indictment which asserted 27,500 rounds of ammunition had been exported without a permit from the secretary of state.

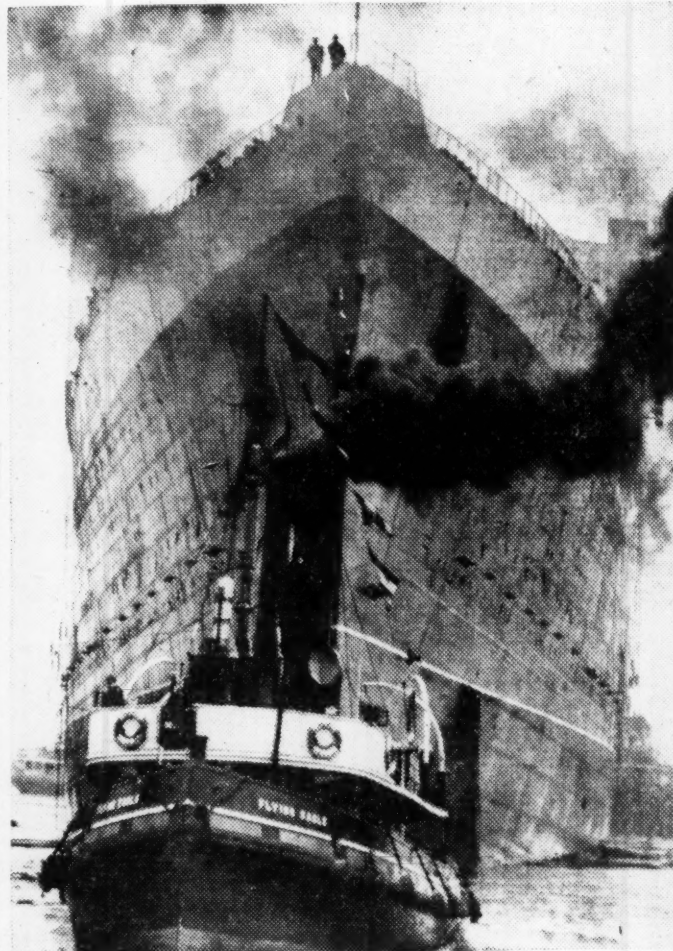

The Mexicans, in jail at Laredo, Texas, are:

Lieutenant Colonel Francisco de Valle Arripe, 40, who said he was a National Revolutionary party candidate for representative in the national congress.

Gregorio Prieto, 44, who said he was in the employ of the National Revolutionary party.

In Bridgeport, Conn., James H. Chasmar, Remington general works manager, commented:

"I can't imagine what this is all about."

QUEEN ELIZABETH NEARS NEW YORK

half-incredible chase led the British navy by the German liner Bremen before she arrived last December 12 safe in a German port.

The Bremen, carrying no passengers and riding low in the water under a tremendous load of food and fuel, raced out of New York harbor 36 hours before the German legions marched on Poland, put on a hurried disguise at sea, slipped past the British to reach Marmansk, Russia, by a lonely northern route and made her way triumphantly home from there. It was altogether a 3 1/2-month game of perilous hide-and-seek for her.

Bombers Target.
The Elizabeth—which had been reported in maritime circles here to have been the repeated target of German bombers in her fitting-out basin on Clydebank—likewise left without passengers and seemingly unarmed.

The decision to put her in here was brought about in part by the fact, it was stated in London, that New York was one of the few safe harbors with facilities sufficient to accommodate her.

So vast is her bulk—she is 1,030 feet long—that her launching September 28, 1938, in the Clyde river was one of unusual difficulty, since she is 160 feet longer than the Clyde is wide. At last, after the river had been deepened, she was headed upstream and sent down the ways with 2,350 tons of drag chains attached to her hull.

Damaged by Fire.
Her library and air plant machinery were damaged last February 21 in a fire about which there was some talk of sabotage, although it was officially attributed to an electrical defect.

Tonight, the Mauretania, a lesser sister, was moved from Pier 90—the current home of the Queen Mary and Normandie—to make room for the Elizabeth, and workmen scurried about under the dock lights making ready for her arrival. Whether the final minor construction still required in her interior is to be made while she remains here was not disclosed.

The enforced leave taken by the Queen Mary and the French liners Normandie and Ile de France has greatly reduced British and French shipping here since the war began, although the new Mauretania and such other smaller British vessels as the Scythia, Georgic and Britannic have carried on a camouflaged and semi-secret traffic.

The Ile de France left her big berth in the North river some time ago and is now tied up at Staten Island.

Although London reports had said the Queen Elizabeth apparently had left without arms, this was not amplified and shipping men here assumed that she would turn up with six-inch guns at the stern and an anti-aircraft gun—an equipment which has become substantially standard for British merchant ships arriving here.

It likewise seemed probable that she was carrying new British anti-mine devices at her prow of a type only recently perfected. They set up disturbances in the magnetic fields of mines to render them ineffective.

Even the job of piloting a ves-

Crew of Bremen Awarded Soccer Cup by Y.M.C.A.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(P)—The crew of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen—the "shadow ship" whose wartime odyssey last fall was an international mystery for weeks—today was awarded the $2,500 silver soccer cup presented annually by the Seamen's House of the Y. M. C. A.

The cup was given by proxy through Captain William Drechsel, marine superintendent of the German line's New York offices.

The award was to have been presented last August 28, but ship officers asked a postponement because of the urgency in getting the vessel quickly on her way to safety.

sel of such size into New York harbor is one of extraordinary difficulty, and shipping men said that should tomorrow's weather be unfavorable it was possible that the Elizabeth might be anchored for some time in the outer harbor or off quarantine.

THOUSANDS KNEW OF 'SECRET' TRIP

LONDON, March 7.—(Thursday)—(P)—Announcement that the giant liner Queen Elizabeth had crossed the Atlantic unharmed on a secret maiden trip was hailed throughout Great Britain today as striking proof of the royal navy's command of the seas and a remarkable tribute to the Englishman's ability to keep an important secret.

"Thousands of Clydeside people knew the Elizabeth had left her berth nine days ago, and the Scottish and national press of Great Britain knew it," said the authoritative British Press Association, "and yet the secret was kept."

Pride of Navy.
"The lives of the crew of the great ship were at stake, not to mention the pride of the British navy itself. Clydesiders . . . remembered Britain's guardian motto, 'Careless talk costs lives.'"

Naval sources and the owners of the world's largest passenger liner, the Cunard-White Star Company, declined to disclose details of her "ghost trip."

"Her arrival in New York," continued the press association, "gives Adolf Hitler and Admiral Raeder—chief of the Nazi sea terror campaign—a startling shock in view of the Nazi claim to 'control of the oceans.'"

The British press subordinated other news to front page announcements of the crossing, illustrated with photographs of the gray-hulled liner leaving Clyde.

Not Armed.
Eyewitnesses of the departure, now permitted to talk, said the liner apparently was not armed. The Elizabeth sailed without passengers and manned by a crew sworn to secrecy.

She carried a big fuel supply in case a submarine alarm necessitated a change in her route. Because of lack of time to "run in" her engines, her speed was

STALIN TELLS REDS 'NEVER SURRENDER'

Army Manual Warns on Traps, Frost Bite and Pretty Girls.

MOSCOW, March 6.—(UP)—The Red army's new infantry manual adjured Russian soldiers not to surrender under any circumstances, even at the cost of death.

"Those who go to the front as representatives of the workers and peasants have no choice," it quotes Lenin. "Their slogan must be 'victory or death.'"

The manual declares that "cowardice, panic, flight from the battlefield or voluntary surrender mean violation of the military oath and treason to the Fatherland."

Instructions are given to guard military secrets, prevent frost bite, and avoid land mines because "the enemy treacherously avoids open battle and mines roads, streets, buildings and stores."

"Do not touch anything unnecessarily," the manual warns. "Beware of pretty girls in dancehalls and parks who may be spies, as well as bicycles, revolvers, uniforms, arms, dead horses and men lying on roads—they are not there accidentally."

held down in crossing the Atlantic.

Delayed reports of the departure said Royal Air Force planes circled the liner as she dropped down the River Clyde.

The Elizabeth answered their roaring motors with her deep bass siren.

From the time the liner left her fitting-out station until she completed the crossing not a single alarm was given aboard her.

"Had any evilly disposed central European personage wished to interfere with the proceedings he had due notice," declared the Daily Herald.

"On June 20, 1939, it was announced officially that February 26, 1940, would be the day for moving the Queen Elizabeth. She kept to schedule."

It was believed in shipping circles here the Queen Elizabeth would remain in New York throughout the war. New York was regarded as the most suitable haven removed from the war zone. With the coming of spring and possible expansion of German air activity, the liner's berth at Clyde, the narrowest point of Scotland, would be exposed to possible attack.

Although no details were available, it generally was assumed that the liner was escorted by a powerful armada using naval sea-planes for reconnaissance.

Dies Visits Miami To Probe Reports of Reds in Florida

DEAD RED TROOPS PILED IN 'HEAPS'

Finns Firm at Viipuri in the Face of Fierce Attacks.

HELSINKI, March 6.—(P)—The Red army hurled hundreds of tanks and planes into a series of fierce attacks against Viipuri, but Finnish defense lines held firm, the high command declared today, reporting "heaps" of Russian dead were piled before the Finnish lines.

The battle, which appeared to be increasing in intensity, was strung along a front from Viipuri bay to the Vuoksi river near the center of the Karelian isthmus.

Some of the bloodiest fighting was reported on the icy bay, where the Russians have made repeated attacks in the last four days.

For three successive days Finnish communiques have mentioned this fighting in their opening sentences, this time saying the Russians, "supported by aircraft, tanks and artillery," had been repulsed.

Heavy Russian losses were described on the Pollakkala sector near the isthmus center. "Dozens" of enemy tanks were destroyed, the Finns said.

Military observers expressed belief the Russians were concentrating on the Pollakkala region because of enormous losses suffered in trying to cross open stretches of ice farther east.

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—(P)—Chairman Martin Dies, of the house committee investigating un-American activities, arrived here late today to inquire into reports he said had come to him of Communist activities in Florida and that aliens had been entering this country illegally through this state.

"We will interview a number of witnesses from several Florida cities," he said.

Two years ago the White Front, an anti-Semitic organization, attempted to hold a public meeting here, but nothing has been heard of the group recently.

COUNTERFEITING CHARGED.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 6.—William David Hutchins, charged with counterfeiting, was convicted by a jury in federal court yesterday, but sentence was deferred until later in the week for further investigation of his record by Judge Bascom S. ## CHICAGO AGENCY TO MAKE SURVEY OF CITY EMPLOYEES

3,119 Jobs To Be Classified by Public Administration Service, Beginning Next Week.

The Public Administration Service, a non-profit corporation of Chicago, will begin next week a job and salary classification for 3,119 municipal employees, it was announced yesterday by the Atlanta personnel board.

Announcement of the selection of the organization was made by Carl T. Sutherland, personnel director, after several others had been considered.

The sum of $8,000 has been provided for the work, but under the contract between the personnel board and the organization, the studies will be done on a per diem basis, with a guarantee that the total will not exceed the amount now available.

Of the 3,119 employees whose jobs and salaries will be studied, 2,907 are in various city departments other than the schools, and 212 are attached to the schools in various capacities. Approximately 245 types of work are included in the respective assignments of the employees who will come under scrutiny.

Actual work will be under the direction of David L. Robinson Jr., executive director of the organization, but it was expected yesterday that Rolland Severy, who has handled many similar jobs for PAS, probably will be in direct charge of the local studies.

In 1934, PAS made a survey of the local relief situation, it was said, and it was such a thorough job that the personnel board, composed of Gus Harper, chairman, Aubrey Milam, secretary, and J. P. Allen, decided that the retention of the organization for the present job would insure an unbiased and impartial classification of jobs and employees.

Among other outstanding classifications made by the organization in recent months are the Alabama civil service, Rhode Island civil service, Michigan civil service, Seattle, Wash., and Dallas, Texas.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are the chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 1 pint a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 10 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

REV. H. J. PENN'S RITES ARE TODAY

Funeral Will Be Held at 2:30 O'Clock.

Rites for the Rev. H. J. (Jack) Penn, 53, vice president of the Atlanta board of education, who died Tuesday, will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Wesley Memorial Methodist church.

The Rev. William Boring, the Rev. W. J. DeBardleben, Dr. W. G. Henry, the Rev. George McLarty, and Dr. W. A. Sutton will officiate and burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery under direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

30 GRASS FIRES LAID TO 'CARELESSNESS'

More than 30 "grass fires" in all parts of the city kept the fire department almost constantly on the jump yesterday, and Chief Styron blamed "just plain carelessness" for most of them.

"It always seems to happen on clear, cool days," he said, "and from all we have been able to find the majority of them are started by children. It is a highly dangerous pastime, particularly at this time of the year, and I cannot urge too strongly the need for more caution."

Professor E. D. Adrian, the first man to photograph the brain at work, has been appointed a member of the Medical Research Council in London.

MRS. S. G. CROUCH DIES IN 82D YEAR

Rites Will Be Held This Morning at Spring Hill.

Mrs. Carrie Crouch, 81, of 333 Elmira place, N. E., a resident here most of her life, died yesterday morning at a private hospital after a lingering illness.

A native of Iowa, Mrs. Crouch was the former Miss Carrie Tutwiler and moved here with her family as a child a few years after the Civil War. Her husband, the late Silas G. Crouch, was in the printing business for many years. Surviving are her granddaughters, Mrs. W. W. Booth, Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. J. Lamar Martin; a son-in-law, L. A. Lindsey; four great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Services will be conducted at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill by the Rev. W. Lee Cutts. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery, under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

COHAN'S DAUGHTER MARRIES MUSICIAN

Ceremony Was Delayed by Pennsylvania Law.

(Picture on Page 11)
DOYLESTOWN, Pa., March 6.—(P)—George M. Cohan's daughter, Mary, and George Ranken, New York night club accordionist, were married here by a justice of the peace today—five days after an elopement that went awry because of Pennsylvania marriage laws.

The actor's songstress daughter and the 32-year-old musician who became her second husband today motored here early last Thursday and applied for a marriage license. They returned to New York when told about the three-day waiting requirement, and Mary said then she was uncertain if or when they would try again.

CLAUDE V. RAMBO DIES AT DENVER

Former Georgian Was Brother of Atlantian.

Claude V. Rambo, 55, brother of R. K. Rambo, of Atlanta, and a native Georgian, died yesterday afternoon at Denver, Col., where he made his home for more than 30 years.

Born in Chattooga county, he was in the drug business at Louisville, Monroe and Savannah before moving to Colorado for his health.

In addition to his brother, he is survived by several nieces and nephews. The body is to be brought back to Georgia for burial. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

324-Pound Lottery Operator, Very Delicate, Granted Respite

Physician Outlines List of Ailments Difficult To Pronounce.

If a 324-pound Negro lottery operator has a bad heart and a lot of other ailments, the names of which are too long to pronounce, apparently the only thing left to do is to keep him happy.

Mack Frye, a Negro, of 565 Reed street, S. E., weighs that amount, has those ailments and has been convicted in Fulton county criminal court of the operation of a lottery, but yesterday he was granted a 30-day respite from an eight-month sentence by Downing Musgrove, executive secretary to Governor Rivers.

Letter from Doctor.

Musgrove displayed a letter from an Atlanta physician, outlining the Negro's ailments. Musgrove said the letter was presented by Frye's attorneys, Ellis McClelland and J. Mallory Hunt. The attorneys asked for the 30-day respite to allow them to present a petition to the prison and parole board asking for some form of clemency.

The letter from the physician pointed out that the condition of the Negro's heart was such that he should not be subjected to manual labor in a prison camp.

The diagnosis showed the following: adiposity of hypo-thyroid type, chronic nephritis, myocarditis, chronic tonsillitis, moderate hypertension and chronic varicose ulcer of the right leg.

In defense of his action, Musgrove, who acted for Governor Rivers in the latter's absence, issued the following statement: "The granting of a respite of 30 days to Mack Frye, convicted in the criminal court of Fulton county for the operation of a lottery, a misdemeanor, is no variance from the policy of this office in granting respites to persons in order that they might have an opportunity to appeal to the Prison and Parole Commission for clemency, and in this particular case the time for filing a motion for a new trial had passed, due to the fact that petitioner had employed new counsel, namely, Mr. Ellis McClelland and Mr. J. Mallory Hunt."

"There is no application pending in this office at present in regard to this petition."

Musgrove said he did not know if the Negro had been working, but pointed out that he did not want to be the cause of bringing about the man's death.

Frye is at liberty under $1,000 bond. His record shows a previous lottery conviction and a four-month sentence.

PROBERS OF NLRB SPLIT ON REVISIONS

Three Members of House Committee To Offer Amendments.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P)—Three members of the house committee investigating the National Labor Board announced tonight they had split with the other two members and would introduce a series of amendments tomorrow to the Wagner act.

Chairman Smith, Democrat, Virginia, of the committee, said that he and Representatives Hallock, Republican, Indiana, and Rutzohn, Republican, Ohio, would sponsor the revisions. They declined to disclose the nature of the amendments. One of the principal arguments centered on proposals, made by Representative Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, and others, to abolish the three-man labor board and substitute a new five-man board.

Forewoman Believes Something 'Held Back'

Shown at left is Mrs. Vera Hardy, forewoman of the Cluett-Peabody shirt factory, who yesterday expressed belief "someone is keeping something back" in the Henry county "lovers' lane" double-slaying which took the life of her charge, Sara Martha Rawls. At right, Johnnie Miller, the dead girl's most intimate friend, is seen reading a letter the girl sent her, telling of fears of complications on the preceding week end.

DRAMATIC LETTER FOUND IN MURDER

ough cafe, as well as the girl's sister, Frances Rawls, two other girl companions of Saturday night and persons at the bowling alley where Ford, a childhood acquaintance, met the group and suggested the trip in his pick-up type truck which ended in the death of both.

The mother said that the first man mentioned in the letter had come to McDonough the previous Saturday, as forecast in the letter, but had left her home alone about 3 o'clock that afternoon, because it was believed the other young man would return from a business trip later in the day to keep his engagement.

However, the second young man did not come, and was believed to have been away, because of his work, for the last three weeks.

With eyes still swollen from grief, the recipient of the letter told this afternoon of the narrow thread on which the fate of her friend hung.

"Sara went to the bowling alley with her sister, and two girl friends, Nellie Knight and Fay Knight," Johnnie, a dark-eyed, dark-haired, slender young woman in slacks, declared. "She came up to them after talking with Benton, and said to Nellie:

"Benton wants me to ride down to the Green Tree Inn. I don't know whether to go or not." "She sort of hesitated, and Nellie told her: 'Well, I'll let you just this once.' So they went. Of course, Benton didn't know what was going to happen, but if they hadn't made the trip all this wouldn't ever have been."

She said she knew every detail of her friend's daily life and that young Ford was but a casual acquaintance despite the years they had known each other.

Positive that the real circumstances of the tragedy had not been discovered, Johnnie suggested that the eventual denouement would show Ford knew the murderer or murderers and, because of his great physical strength, did not fear to obey their supposed commands to drive from the highway for a considerable distance up the by-road.

Lark Theory Expressed.
"I hadn't felt sure of myself," she declared firmly. "Benton would have wrecked the truck while still on the highway. I suppose it was someone who had hidden in the back of the truck that told him to do it. It may have been a party of boys who started it all as a lark and finally found themselves in a real fight and struck Benton while excited."

She said she was sure Miss Rawls had been slashed with a knife as well as struck upon the head by a heavy instrument, believed to have been an automobile "jack" or heavy hammer.

Loyal to Memory.
Loyal to her friend's memory, Miss Miller insisted Sara would not have consented to drive upon the lonely road, and she was equally confident Ford had not suggested the trip voluntarily.

Belief that "someone is keeping something back" was voiced also by Mrs. Vera Hardy, forewoman of the Cluett-Peabody shirt factory, 2022 Murphy avenue, S. W., Atlanta, where she had been Sara's immediate superior for more than two years.

"The truth will be forced out sooner or later," she prophesied. "I don't believe it was some accidental passer-by who did it, and I think it must have been more than one person. It was somebody, or more than one person, that knew Sara or had seen her."

An additional $100 to the $700 rewards already offered was posted by E. S. Davidson, proprietor of the Green Tree Inn, just north of Stockbridge, where Ford and

Shell vs. Armor: Problem Solved By Wily Admirals

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P) A house naval subcommittee got the low-down today on how the navy stimulates rivalry among private manufacturers.

Rear Admiral W. R. Furlong, chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, put it this way: "We keep working on the steel fellows until they develop armor that will stop our test shells. Then we take that armor to the shell people and say, 'Look here, what's the matter? Your shells won't even go through the armor.'"

SENATOR SMITH SUPPORTS HULL

'Cotton Ed' Says Secretary 'Real Democrat.'

WASHINGTON, March 6.—(P) Senator Ellison D. ("Cotton Ed") Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, came out strongly today for Secretary of State Hull for the Democratic presidential nomination, saying that Hull could end all strife within the party.

"A presidential boom is rapidly developing around Hull," Smith said. "He's about as near a real American Democrat as we've got in public life."

Smith has threatened "to take a walk" from the party convention if it nominated President Roosevelt for a third term.

SCREVEN FARMER FATALLY WOUNDED

SYLVANIA, Ga., March 6.—(P) Emory Parker, 30, Screven county farmer, died tonight of a self-inflicted pistol wound in the head, Deputy Sheriff W. L. Crumley reported. No inquest will be held, the officer said.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at McDonald Baptist church in Screven county. Survivors include his wife, one son and three brothers.

Miss Rawls went from the bowling alley in McDonough.

Davidson, formerly chief of police of Thonaston, Ga., was much upset by the tragedy. He had been operating the inn for but a short time.

He, too, believed neither of the young men mentioned in the letter had been about the inn that night.

"If necessary I'll close up this place and go out to find the man or men who did this," he said. "I'd like to get my hands on him or them."

M'LARIN RESIGNS WELFARE POSITION

row $2,700,000 from the Atlanta clearing house banks at one per cent interest for county operating expenses. This is the customary action in anticipating fall tax collections.

Dr. Vinton, who once was a candidate for city council and defeated, was nominated to succeed McLarin by Commissioner Gloer Hailey, from a list of three physicians recommended for the place by the Fulton County Medical Society. The others were Dr. C. C. Aven and Dr. Henry Poir.

The new board of welfare member is also a member of the board of the Family Welfare Society and of the social service board of the American Legion.

Resignation of McLarin is the third major change in the welfare board setup within less than a year. John K. Otley Jr., resigned from the board because of business pressure, and Albert Gossett, labor leader, was named to take his place. Recently, W. E. Mitchell, board chairman for more than two years, resigned that post, but not his membership on the board.

No one has been elected to fill the chairmanship. Less than six months ago, Dr. William Huck, director of the welfare department, was forced to resign and Henry W. Mays Jr. was appointed to take his place.

Mrs. Thomas addressed a direct plea to Commissioners Ed Almond, chairman of the building and grounds purchasing committee; J. A. Ragdale, chairman of the public works committee; Troy Chastain, chairman of finance and parks; and Dr. Charles R. Adams, chairman of police, to economize in their departments to the utmost in order to finance relief without increasing the total tax levy.

She asked them to cut corners and save the necessary amount of money.

County Attorney Spalding warned the commissioners that the total budget figure for 1940, which must be decided finally this month, must not be more than 99 per cent of the 1939 cash collections, and to bear in mind that in 1941 the county can budget against only 98 per cent of 1940's cash collections.

If expenditures of any department are in excess of the budget figures, the county is not indebted, but the county commissioners are personally liable for the excess spent, he pointed out. No debts can be incurred on the basis of hope for increased income, he added.

After more than 30 minutes discussing a board of welfare letter which requested Judge Garland Watkins to assume the entire work of supervising Negro children on probation, the commission suggested Judge Watkins confer with County Welfare Director H. B. Mays.

Judge Watkins said he could not assume the work unless his budget was increased to include two or three persons for this work.

Members of the commission pointed out that they are contributing $5,000 a month for this work and if the county must do the job then the $5,000 a month shall be deducted from the county's welfare contribution.

Judge Watkins said the county welfare department is now supervising about 250 Negro wards of the court.

City Taxpayers Have Nine Days To File Returns Without Cost

March 15 Deadline, Says Assessor; Lines Begin To Swell.

Warning that only nine days remain in which thousands of Atlantans may file their 1940 tax returns and escape penalties for failing to do so, city tax assessors yesterday urged those who have not yet visited the city hall to do so at once.

Joe C. Little, senior tax assessor, backed by Leo Sudderth and J. Sid Tiller, his colleagues, pointed out that March 15 is the deadline for filing without fi. fa. and interest costs. Under the law returns must be filed in the assessors' office by March 15. Both Atlanta and Fulton county tax returns can be filed at the city hall.

Lines of taxpayers at the assessing windows were swelling yesterday as the time neared for the actual closing of the books.

Little said those who file this week probably can do so with a minimum of discomfort, but warned that it will take considerably longer to file next week, when all windows probably will be crowded by late comers.

Only about 55 per cent of the 75,000 who must file before the books close for the year, had done so yesterday, it was estimated.

OFFICER'S MEMORY BETRAYS SUSPECT

'Bug' Squad Policeman Says He Remembers Man Who Escaped.

They say an elephant never forgets. Well, neither does County Policeman Burton Carroll.

Carroll yesterday arrested Robert Riley, 25-year-old white man, on a lottery charge because the officer had a good memory.

Last September, Carroll attempted to arrest Riley, the officer declared, but was outdistanced in the chase.

In the escape, Carroll said, Riley threw down several wads of lottery tickets. Picking up the tickets, Carroll field them for future reference.

Officers said the tickets were secreted behind a "trick" mirror. They said the mirror was in two pieces and that the bottom portion was lowered and the tickets dropped into a box, which was secluded.

Yesterday he saw Riley and placed him under arrest and began looking over the lottery tickets which he said Riley threw down last September.

Carroll and Policeman C. E. Mitchell, members of the county "bug" squad, arrested a Negro, M. L. Allen, yesterday morning as they raided a suspected pickup station on West Hunter street.

The officers seized several stacks of lottery tickets in seven different handwritings, they said.

Lace Will Play Important Part in Season's Fashions, Says Hollywood Designer

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, March 6.—Rosemary Lane, photogenic Warner Brothers starlet, has bought a couple of attractive hats with which to greet the early spring—one of shiny black straw, trimmed with moiré ribbon. The front of the hat is square, the back trimmed with bands of the ribbon. The other chapeau is a rough straw, braid braid in black. The brim is manipulated to form part of the crown. Trimming notes are black grosgrain strips, veiling at the back, and a smart white quill tipped in bright blue.

Orry-Kelly, of Warner Brothers, says that this will definitely be a "lace-ridden season," and to prove his point starts the lace ball rolling with lovely gowns of this material for both "Till We Meet Again" and "The Sea Hawk."

The military air is predominant in Rita Johnson's spring sport coat. The Metro actress' reefer coat is double-breasted and buttoning to a soft folded collar, and is highlighted with tremendous knap-pack pockets on each side. Accessories are a suede slouch hat in blue, with bag and gloves in a matching shade.

For a recent week end in the desert, Miss Johnson wore a light blue linen skirt, gathered at the waist into a wide cummerbund. The skirt was topped by a sheer linen blouse in white, covered with gay embroidery in vivid reds, greens and blues. Soft white angora socks and white play shoes completed the ensemble.

Petticoats are here to stay, and Ann Rutherford wears one with her cotton evening dress that is influenced by the "Gone With the Wind" trend. Of yellow voile with small pink and blue flowers, the petticoat features a tremendous ruffle encircling the hemline.

Diana Lewis (Mrs. William Powell) owns a two-piece plaid linen play dress, featuring a very flared skirt, backless bodice and wide red leather band. Over it goes a little box-jockey in the same plaid.

A tremendous pocket is the important feature of Greer Garson's black dinner suit. Of deep black wool, the gown has a slim skirt. The draped blouse is high-lighted with a huge tie of gilt embroidery across the neckline. The shoulders are full and graduate into long, tight sleeves. From the belt line, a huge pocket, muffled in appearance, falls to finger-tip length. Greer tops her outfit with a dinner cap in black, smartly accented by the gold embroidery of the dress.

Ilena Massey's tweed suit is made of black and white herring-bone. The skirt falls in flares. The blouse, a soft white crepe, is open at the neck and features tiny emerald-green studs. Smartly tailored is the finger-tip length jacket with extreme shoulders and long sleeves. The waistline is accented by a cummerbund in the brilliant green of the studs. Accessories are a casual hat in black with a green feather thrust jauntily through the crown, black suede shoes, envelope bag and gloves.

Merle Oberon, starring in the former with George Brent, wears a frock combining lace and faille. Black lace is used for a low-hipped bodice, gay faille for a bouffant skirt. The bodice of the latter has long, tight sleeves and a low, square neck, with shoulders slightly squared by means of a tucked puff.

The gowns Brenda Marshall and Flora Robson wear as Spanish señorita and Elizabeth the Queen, respectively, in "The Sea Hawk," are in lace or thin lace over satin or velvet. Cobweb silver lace over sky blue satin with a large collar of the lace, mother of pearl disks dotting the skirt front, and a rope of pearls around the waist, make a beautiful gown for Brenda. Black lace over royal scarlet velvet is used for Miss Robson.

Ray Bainter, lunching at the Brown Derby in a novel turban, self-wrapped from long skeins of brilliant gentian wool yarn. The accompanying dress was a gray crepe; her bag and gloves were in gentian suede.

No Wife Is Happy If Hubby Puts His Family First

By Caroline Chatfield.

Presumably the millennium must come before some men comprehend the fact that the minute they show preference for their families over their wives

Feminine Charm

By Barbara Bell.

If you're a 12-to-20 size, you should be jubilant about the new trend toward a longer torso effect, because that long, slim look between bust and waistline is marvelous for your figure, as you can see from a mere glance at 1931-B. Here's a charming little dress for home wear or office, clean-cut and simple, with lots of feminine charm, thanks to the rippling, swinging skirt, the high shoulders, the youthful collar and rows of braid.

There's practically no fitting to it, you see, just those easy darts at the waistline, so you can make it quickly and easily. Send for the pattern right away, and discover how you can gain individually and save money by making your own day dresses. For the house, make this of gingham, percale or chambray. For the street, choose flat crepe or tie silk.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1931-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4-5 yards of 36-inch material without nap; 1-3 yard for collar; 12 yards of braid.

Price of pattern, 15 cents; book, 15 cents. Mail orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

they have kissed peace good-bye and laid out trouble for themselves that knows no end. Not holding a brief for jealous, possessive wives but simply saying that when a man marries a woman and promises to put her before all others in his life, it's a scurvy trick for him to step over her head and assign his property or his insurance to members of his clan.

It's one of those affairs in which both the money and the principle (if the thing are important. No doubt there are many circumstances under which a husband has to come to the aid of his clan and deny himself to do it. Naturally his wife must share the deprivations that are entailed. Usually she will do it with a smile if he has had proper consideration for her and has asked her co-operation. But when he treats her as a minor, makes his plans and announces his decisions—that's another matter. He has set her back and unless she's wise as a serpent, harmless as a dove, and direct as an angel she'll pay him back.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Not long ago I married a man who seemed to care for me. A few months later his father died, leaving to him and his brothers and sisters quite a nice property. Right away he signed his part over to them. Now I have all—though a wife came first with her husband. But that's not all. We live in a rented house and have a poor prospect of having a home of my own as my husband's salary is not large. If anything were to happen to him I would have nothing. I am disappointed and disgusted and hoping you can advise me what to do. SECOND FIDDLE.

ANSWER:

Sister, nothing sets a woman back like finding that her husband prefers his family before her. Almost worse than another woman in the case, isn't it? and far more hopeless. So the advice is just this: What can't be cured must be endured and there are several ways of enduring. One a tight-lipped sullen silence; another a long-lashed attack; another a sweet acceptance of a bitter fact with a firm determination to change your husband's attitude toward you.

You can sulk and make your husband and yourself unhappy. You can lash him and make him angry, but beyond venting your spleen you will have accomplished nothing; for you can't get back the property. In view of this fact I would recommend the third plan: Namely, that you forget about the injustice, if injustice it is, and accept the decision with a firm determination to win the thing you thought you had. First place with your husband.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

SPRING OUTFITS TO SUIT ALL TYPES

Four solo flights into the spring fashion sphere are pictured in the fashion album today. It's black spots before the eyes when Mrs. Kay Talmadge appears wearing a smart black sheer jacket dress, as pictured on the left. If you are going to want a change, this model is one of the smartest entries in the spring wardrobe. Notice that the dress is relieved from its somberness by a white pique trim which is buttoned on either side. The dress is a real basic type and the slight fullness in the front gives a youthful casualness which is very becoming. Her little devil-may-care hat is a fluff of straw and is trimmed with a red and black veil. The thin gray line is becoming stronger in the fashion conquest and the second picture presents Miss Marguerite Thomas in a Confederate gray. It is topped with gray and yellow jacket which buttons snugly down the front, and achieving the long torso line which is fashion's latest order. Notice how it is nipped in at the waist. The sleeves are bracelet length and the high collar gives a demure look. Her hat is a large gray felt. In the next picture, Miss Jeannette Fluker is the star and the stripes feature her career girl dress. It is patriotic even to color, for it is a tiny pin pattern in blue and white and made with a lowered waistline and a gathered fullness in the all-round skirt. White pique collar and cuffs give a dainty feminine touch and a romantic note is achieved by her red heart lapel gadget. To top it all,

A VISIT TO ATLANTA STORES

her hat is a salute red straw. At the right, a lovely model is wearing a four-way costume, and is definitely on the waiting list for the Atlanta girls' spring wardrobe list. Model No. 1 features a silk print two-piece suit with pleats around skirt, the blouse being shown in the above photograph. Then Model 2 is similar to the above picture, with the silk blouse being worn with the botany flannel cardigan jacket and skirt. Model No. 3 can be worn with the jacket buttoned up, while Model No. 4 milady can use with only the flannel jacket and skirt. ### MY DAY: New Philosophy In a Prayer

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—Because I had to take a train at Raleigh, N. C., I arrived at the White House yesterday morning almost at the same time as did my guests, the Rev. and Mrs. Endicott Peabody and Mrs. Louis Howe. I found my mother-in-law and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson from Hyde Park already there. We had a pleasant breakfast in the west hall and at 9:30 I started on a busy day.

First I held a press conference to which I had invited Mrs. William Kittle, chairman of the District of Columbia Minimum Wage Board. She represents the public on the District of Columbia board of three—one member represents the employees, one the employers, and the third one the public. She gave a very clear description of how the minimum wage law has affected women in the District of Columbia, and answered questions which have always bothered me.

One is, does a minimum wage law throw a great many women out of work? Here in the district, in such occupations as are fairly well organized, the employment of women has increased since the law passed, but in a few of the badly organized occupations, such as laundry, cafeteria and hotel workers, there has been a very slight decrease in employment. The other question which is often asked, is whether the minimum wage becomes the maximum wage and means that few people ever get better pay. Mrs. Kittle was able to show from studies made here that women who had formerly been receiving more than the minimum wage still receive higher pay, and a far greater percentage than ever before are receiving the amount set as the minimum wage, whereas formerly they had been receiving less than the present minimum wage.

It looks to me, therefore, as though this was working out very well in the district and should work equally well in other localities.

We all went at 10:30 to St. John's church across Lafayette square for the service which my husband always liked to have on the anniversary of his first inauguration day. One prayer which was read made a deep impression on me. I did not happen to know this prayer before, and I think it is one which many of us would be glad to say many times, so I am giving it to you here in full:

"Our Father, who hast set a restlessness in our hearts, and made us all seekers after that which we can never fully find; forbid us to be satisfied with what we make of life. Draw us from base content, and set our eyes on far-off goals. Keep us at tasks too hard for us, that we may be driven to Thee for strength. Deliver us from fretfulness and self-pity; make us sure of the goal we cannot see, and of the hidden good in the world. Open our eyes to simple beauty all around us, and our hearts to the loveliness men hide from us because we do not try enough to understand them. Save us from ourselves, and show us a vision of a world made new. May Thy spirit of peace and illumination so enlighten our minds that all life shall glow with new meaning and new purpose; through Jesus Christ our Lord"

Make Your Party a Sure Success

"Tea for two and two for tea!" Make the most of that intimate moment by finding thrilling fortunes in the cup.

You can tell tea-leaf fortunes easily—and, well, you're not to blame if romantic ideas pop into the young man's head, are you? So start the fun by asking him to turn his empty cup around three times clockwise, then upside down. Now, you turn the cup over and study the symbols solemnly.

"Dear, dear," you begin sympathetically, catching sight of tea leaves grouped like a snake, "you are in danger through an enemy—probably someone who is envious of you."

"But this four-leaf clover says a good fairy attends you, bringing luck. And this parrot promises a new heart interest, a marriage soon-to-be."

Headaches Are Merely Symptoms

By Dr. William Brady.

Although our medical textbooks still describe this and that drug as an "antipyretic" (which is our quaint medical way of saying it lowers body temperature) no doctor worthy of the name would prescribe or administer medicine to lower body temperature without first trying to ascertain what is causing the elevation of temperature and whether it would be wise or safe to attempt to reduce the temperature. In other words, elevation of temperature above the normal is merely a symptom and it is generally foolish if not dangerous to treat symptoms without regard to their cause. This applies to headache too. Especially when the individual is subject to headache or has it frequently.

Some headaches are genuine and others are not at all what they purport to be. The headache of migraine, commonly called "sick" headache and so attributed to upset stomach or disordered digestion, certainly is not so caused. "Bilious" headache and "nervous" headache may be due to various causes, but certainly not to any fault of the bile apparatus or the nerves. "Eyestrain" headache is much more frequently due to other causes than to actual eyestrain.

There is a popular fallacy that high blood pressure manifests itself by headache. In fact few patients with high blood pressure complain of headache at all. On the other hand "congestive" headache or headache associated with a feeling of pressure or throbbing in the head occurs most frequently in anemia and in anoxia, especially anoxia from slight frequent exposure to air polluted with carbon monoxide.

Slight but persistent dull headache occurs often in patients who have arteriosclerosis, especially when there is some chronic nephritis associated with it and consequent uremia. Only exceptionally is headache the forerunner of apoplexy.

Everyday causes of headache are bad air, fatigue, anxiety, worry, hatred, anger and jealousy, excesses in eating, drinking, smoking, venery, nutritional anemia, anoxia. The last cause, anoxia, oxygen deficiency, is pretty important nowadays, and we'll consider it in detail later.

Because some digestive disturbances generally accompany or follow headache laymen and sometimes physicians erroneously attribute the headache to "indigestion," "biliousness" or "auto-intoxication." This error leads to a great deal of abuse of the digestive organs, the acid-base balance in the system and the genitourinary organs with saline cathartics and other drugs which purport to "regulate" or "correct" the digestive disturbance.

Overeating Is an Escape From Boredom For Some

By Ida Jean Kain.

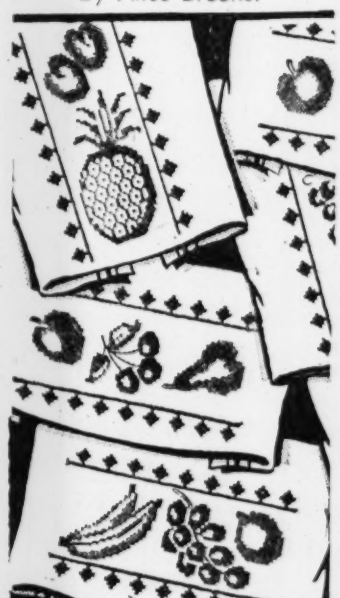

As we grow older there is a natural decrease in activity and less food is required. But, unfortunately, the appetite does not diminish proportionately. That is definitely a mistake on the part of nature!

To be more accurate, the mistake is one of habit—which is second nature. Habit quickly becomes too strong for us. And food is so pleasantly soporific that over-eating is one of the easiest of all habits to form. Moreover, in this respect the individual stands or falls according to her personal inclinations. Society doesn't flicker an eyelash at the gourmandizer! If you happen to want to eat too much, that is exclusively your affair.

There are women who start in eating as soon as the busiest part of their day is over and who keep right on until it is time to retire—often with a bedtime snack. They do not eat because they are hungry. For them, eating is an escape from the boredom of too much routine and the lack of varied interests. It helps to assuage a general, scarcely definable dissatisfaction with life.

Colorful Motifs

By Alice Brooks.

Pattern 6652.

Color makes a kitchen attractive. Get busy on these cross-stitch motifs (8-to-the-inch crosses) for towels, breakfast or luncheon sets! Pattern 6652 contains a transfer pattern of 6 motifs averaging 5 1/2 inches; materials needed; illustrations of stitches.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in coin to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

One of these women wrote: "Eating seemed to be the only pleasure I had, so it didn't seem to matter if I over-did it." But, now that she has gained 60 excess pounds, she is clear-sighted enough to realize that the thing originally regarded as her one pleasure gradually evolved into a major obstacle to the enjoyment of other pleasures. She is determined, we are glad to report, to bring her weight down to normal and to get some fun out of life!

Eating may be a diversion, but it is never a solution. The only way to deal with a growing appetite is to fill one's life with such absorbing interests that food is automatically relegated to its proper place as a necessity.

When you finish your day's work, try to get away from your routine—too much routine soon becomes a rut! On the days when you have nothing else to do, get out and mingle with the crowds on the streets. Do some window-shopping, discreetly avoiding the sweet shops!

Whatever you do, don't stay home when there's nothing to keep you there. If you make a habit of loitering around in the living room, you will soon discover that the trip to the ice-box is the shortest distance to embonpoint—that the habit is much easier to form than to break!

Peaked Waist

By Lillian Mae.

Fashion is fickle, but here's a style that will stay in style season after season. Lillian Mae's Pattern 4404 has such clean-cut, easy-to-stitch lines. The double front skirt panels are very flattering—cut them bias or straight and extend them to a high pointed waistline. A single center seam trims the back skirt for extra ease. Make the sleeves close-fitting or crisply flared, and dart the shoulders generously to hold flat and trim the nice softness through the bodice. The youthful notched collar is becoming in self-fabric or in fresh contrast, with matching cuffs. Do use gay ric-rac or ruffle edging.

Pattern 4404 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 4 yards 36-inch fabric and 1 3/4 yards ric-rac.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Capture spring enchantment with a wardrobe selected from our Lillian Mae Spring Pattern Book. It interprets the gay and lovely new styles in colorful clothes for tots, teens and twenties... slim-line dresses for the business girl... smart frocks for the woman-past-forty... an exquisite costume for the bride and appealing new fashions in prints and cottons... all available in easy-to-sew patterns. Book 15 cents. Send your order to Lillian Mae Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Rival Clubs in Natchez Claim Origin of Pilgrimage

THE INTEREST of sentimental tourists who choose to wander through the living museums of early Dixie is focused on Natchez, Miss., now recognized as one of America's leading shrines. Thousands of tourists are flocking there, guided by historic and century-old traditions, as the ninth annual pilgrimage to the little southern city takes place. It will be climaxed when the Natchez Garden Club begins its tour on Easter Sunday and continues through April 7. The present tour conducted by the Pilgrimage Garden Club began last Saturday and will continue until March 23.

Former residents of beautiful old Natchez, living in other sections of the United States, are boosting their city in enthusiastic tones, while headquarters of the two garden clubs are issuing colorful and romantic descriptions of the country, as a mecca for spring travelers, where the south still lives and where famous and historic ante-bellum homes are open to the public.

These tours have become known all over the country, but their origin has caused a confusing situation in the minds of tourists. Just what was the origin of the tours? Both the Natchez and the Pilgrimage Garden clubs claim the distinction as founders of this annual invasion of the deep south. Both clubs are sponsoring their individual ninth annual tours at different dates. Both clubs have different ante-bellum homes open for the visitors, and both clubs have arranged a program of events. Both have sent out information regarding the origin of the tours in 1931, and both clubs have entirely separate versions of the beginning.

Sally, therefore, presents today excerpts from the advance publicity regarding the two tours as sent out by the rival organizations. The Natchez Club in claiming sponsorship of the first tour attributes the initial visit to bad weather which forced garden club visitors into the homes, while the Pilgrimage Club, also claiming to be first, says that it was because Natchez had no gardens that the tour of homes was arranged. As one writer described the two rival camps, they use "Antiquity as the common battle flag, splendor the emblem, and the passport to all visitors, 'Glad to meet you, honey, call again!'"

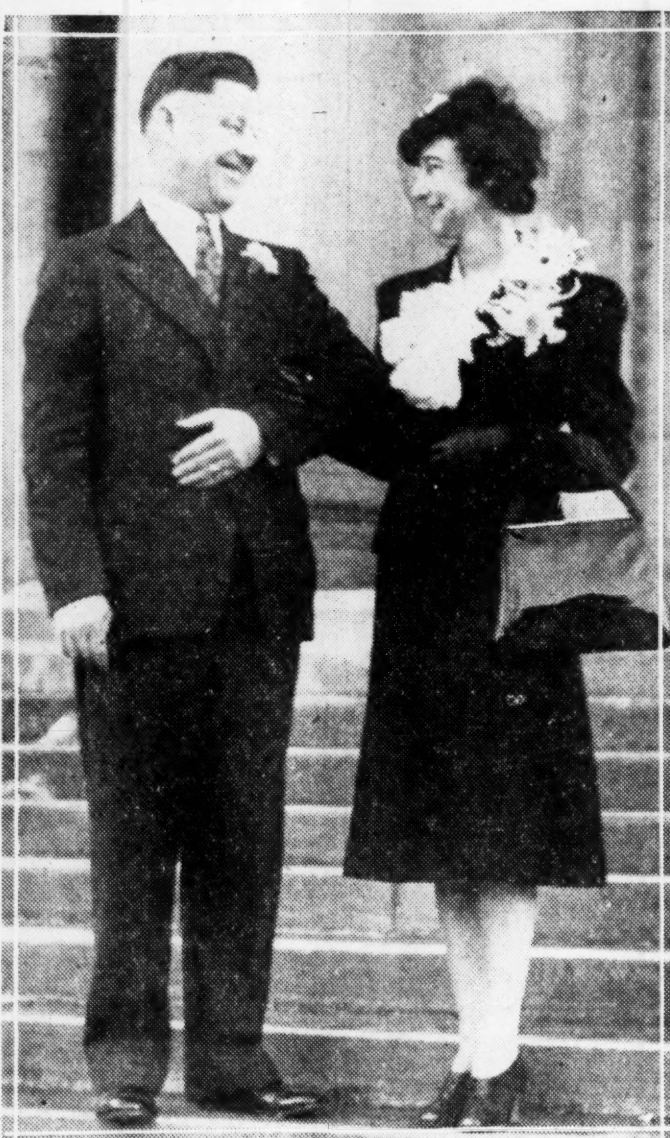

Information sent out by the Natchez Club is quoted, in part, as follows:

"It was a chill March wind, just nine years ago, that blew dreamy little Natchez into fame and fortune, sending shivering delegates, who had assembled there for the convention of the Mississippi Federation of Garden Clubs, out of frost-bitten, old-fashioned gardens into the hospitable shelter of the ante-bellum houses. Members of the Natchez Garden Club, in despair when a late freeze destroyed the beauty of a tour of gardens planned for their guests, had arranged in its stead the opening of a number of old homes.

"These fascinating, historic places must not remain hidden from the world any longer," declared the far-sighted and gifted state president of the Mississippi Federation of Garden Clubs in her address at the federation banquet after the tour. "An annual pilgrimage must be arranged so that visitors from other sections of the country may be permitted to see this living page from the nation's past," she added. The Natchez Garden Club, a member of the State Federation, the following spring (1932) sponsored the first annual pilgrimage to the ante-bellum homes and gardens of Natchez.

"Thousands of tourists from all over the United States will visit this dreamy little southern town beginning March 24. Visitors will be greeted at 'Meirrose,' the gem of the Natchez country. Here the century-old scarlet camellia japonica, named the Vivien Leigh in honor of the heroine of GWTW, will be in full bloom. 'Elmscourt,' known as the 'House of a Thousand Candles,' will be open for the ninth successive year for the 'Candlelight Reception' for the tour visitors. Other homes, famed for their antique furnishings, to be open include 'Rosalie,' 'The Briers,' 'Ravenna,' 'Melmont,' 'Auburn,' 'Propinquity,' 'Oakland,' 'Windy Hill

Junior Leaguers May Vote Today

Junior League members may continue to vote today between 10 and 3 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club in the straw ballot to determine the nomination for president. This is for the convenience of members who were unable to attend the league meeting on Tuesday.

Manor, "Magnolia Vale," "Cottage Gardens" and "Belvedere."

Publicity regarding the current tour to Natchez now being sponsored by the Pilgrimage Garden Club is quoted, in part, as follows:

"The deep southland city of Natchez, Miss., is today seething with excitement as the Pilgrimage Garden Club prepares to stage its ninth annual pilgrimage to ante-bellum houses of Natchez March 2 through March 23. In 1929 a garden club was formed in Natchez, growing out of the City Beautiful Department of the Woman's Club. In the spring of 1931, this young garden club entertained the convention of the garden clubs of all Mississippi. Just a few months before the convention a letter arrived from Ben Arthur Davis, secretary of the Mississippi Garden Club Federation, stating that four garden tours should be a part of the two-day program.

"However, Natchez at that time had no gardens, in the accepted sense of the word. Mrs. Balfour Miller, then president of the club, had an idea. She said: 'We have no gardens, but we have something that other cities have not. We have our ante-bellum homes, and many of them have the original furnishings. Now, that would be a novelty for the visitors.'

"Mother Nature was kind to Natchez for that convention in 1931. Her flowers were blooming in profusion, and local papers, with civic pride, played up the abundance of blooms to be enjoyed by the visitors. In October, 1931, the thought of an annual national pilgrimage to the ante-bellum homes presented itself to Mrs. Miller as an inspiration. Thus the stage was set for the first pilgrimage in 1932. In January following the first pilgrimage, Mrs. Miller was awarded a silver trophy for having originated and promoted the Natchez pilgrimage."

LAST FALL there appeared in Sally's column a description of the exquisite gown to be worn by Ann Pappenheimer to the Halloween ball, emphasis being placed on the fact that there existed only one other like it in the world. Today as your society reporter thumbed through the pages of the current issue of Vogue magazine, she discovered that the owner of the other original model is none other than Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, familiarly known as Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth millions.

Mrs. W. F. Williams Is Feted Visitor

One of the most popular visitors in the city is Mrs. W. Frederick Williams, of Bristol, R. I., who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Henry P. Nelson, on Fifteenth street. Mrs. Williams is the former Miss Margaret Nelson, of Atlanta, and is receiving a cordial welcome from a host of friends in the city.

Mrs. Alex Hitz has planned a luncheon in compliment to Mrs. Williams, the affair to assemble a small group of close friends at her home on Brookwood drive next Wednesday.

Mrs. Ralph Paris will entertain a few close friends at luncheon next Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Oscar Davis Jr., of Boston, Mass., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. George Boynton, on Peachtree road. Mrs. Davis is the former Miss Martha Boynton, popular Atlanta belle, and is also receiving much social attention during her visit here.

In the handsome evening gown, her silver blond beauty being enhanced by the sheath of lustrous white satin embroidered with silver leaves.

Ann's dress, you recall, was a gift from her cousin, Cecil Barbee, of Los Angeles, Cal., and is a Chanel model. The Atlanta deb was one of the most admired figures attending the brilliant ball last October, and, needless to say, her beautiful evening gown inspired countless compliments.

SUPERLATIVE files who attended the informal dinner party at which John Sanders and his debutante sister, Josephine, were hosts recently honoring John and Jacynthe Underwood, of London, England. The contest was sponsored by the chaperons and stars present, and provided the high light of the evening's entertainment.

John Underwood, who bears a striking resemblance to the Duke of Windsor, was voted handsomest; and his sister, Jacynthe, received the coveted title of most charming. The Viennese sculptor, Felix Weihs, who is spending several days in the city, was chosen most famous, while Glenn Adair was voted the cleverest at the party.

Edwin Peeples was voted the most versatile, and the best dancers were none other than the attractive hosts, John and Josephine Sanders. The most dignified couple was Charles Daniels and Florence Jones, and the most adaptable couple was George Archer and Constance Knowles.

Both dressed in red, Rebecca Wight and Carvel Long were voted the prettiest, and Thad Coleman and Martha Frost were chosen the witliest.

Corrie Belle Mason was elected the cutest, and J. T. Pittman and Kitty Butler were named the most talented guests. Julia Block and Mary Virginia McConnell were selected as the most modest guests at the party.

Dr. Mrs. Candler To Entertain Bridal Couples

Among interesting social affairs planned for the next week's calendar will be the elaborate cocktail party at which Dr. and Mrs. Robert Candler will be hosts.

The affair will be held next Thursday afternoon at the home of the hosts on Habersham road and will compliment their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Warren Candler, and Mr. and Mrs. John Corn, recent bridal couples.

Mrs. Asa Candler is the former Miss Elaine Davison, popular belle of St. Joseph, Mo., and Mrs. Corn is the former Miss Dorothy Collier, of this city.

Invited for the occasion will be 250 friends of the hosts and honor guests.

Antique Lovers.

The Antique Lovers' Club, of Decatur, meets today at 10 o'clock with Mrs. G. P. Jackson on King's highway. Mrs. Roy G. Jones, president, will preside. Mesdames L. W. Morris and H. F. Higgins, chairman of the program, will present papers on Victorian glass and cup plates.

Plans will be discussed concerning the exhibit and show to be given March 17 and 18 at the Decatur Woman's Club. Mrs. Lawrence Everhart is chairman and Mrs. W. S. Glenn Jr., co-chairman. Mrs. Leon O'Neal, program chairman, will present the yearbooks to the members.

MR. AND MRS. EMIL DITTLER II.

Miss Helene Rosenbaum Marries Emil Dittler II

Miss Helene Harriet Rosenbaum, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rosenbaum, became the bride of Emil Dittler II, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Dittler, at a quiet ceremony taking place at noon yesterday at the Winecoff hotel.

Dr. David Marx officiated in the presence of the immediate families. Mrs. William E. Lipschutz presented the nuptial music. The ceremony was held in a private parlor before an improvised altar formed of palms, evergreens and baskets of spring flowers interspersed with white burning tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, George L. Rosenbaum, and Jack Dittler acted as best man for his brother.

Mrs. Rosenbaum was her daughter's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a smart dress of navy blue crepe with a small hat and other accessories to match. Her corsage was of gardenias.

The bride was lovely in an aquamarine crepe suit. The dress was fashioned along princess lines, with matching coat buttoned from the neckline to the waist. The full, flowing skirt of the coat was shirred at the waistline. Her hat was a French model of matching material. Her other accessories were navy and her flowers were a corsage of yellow orchids.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbaum, the bride's parents, entertained at a seated luncheon in a private dining room. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake on a mound of spring flowers and fern. At either side were large plateaux of variegated spring flowers, flanked by candlesticks holding lighted tapers. A miniature bride and groom marked the bridal couple's places. The guests' place cards were tied with white and blue ribbons and were attached to small crystal candlesticks holding tiny white candles embossed with the bride couple's initials in gold.

Mrs. Jake Dittler, mother of the groom, wore a model of dark blue crepe trimmed in white with hat and accessories to match. Her corsage was of gardenias.

Mrs. Ralph Rosenbaum, grandmother of the bride, wore a tailored dress of powder blue, with navy accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Later in the afternoon the couple left for their wedding trip to points of interest in Florida, the bride traveling in a three-piece suit with a skirt of tomato red flannel trimmed with silver buttons, a blouse of white silk jersey trimmed with red wool embroidery and coat of navy blue trimmed with silver buttons and a touch of tomato red flannel. Her small hat was of navy blue bangkok trimmed with wide grosgrain ribbon across the back. Her accessories were navy blue and her corsage was of orchids.

After March 18 the young couple will be at home at 1023 Ponce de Leon avenue.

FOR HEAD COLDS

... rush-out clogging miseries—rush-in vitalizing healing air.

To handle a head cold you've got to have enough air. Nose must be open to let refreshing, healing air get in. And just 2 drops Penetro Nose Drops will instantly start you on the "open-nose" way out of cold-stuffed misery.

When air can't get in, congestion and blockage are clogging nose passages. So many times colds hang on and hang on. Make sure that this is one cause of long-drawn-out misery of a cold that you're not going to endure. Remember, free and easy breathing takes the kick out of head colds—it helps to cut down the time these colds hang on. So, head off your head colds with genuine Penetro Nose Drops.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering.

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease periodic distress. But CARDUI's principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion; assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years—(adv.)

CAMEO TO OFFER

"PIONEERS OF THE WEST"

The Three Mesquiteers, Bob Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo, prove their capabilities as entertainers in "Pioneers of the West," tomorrow and Saturday at the Cameo theater.

The film has all the elements of first-rate action drama in the picturesque setting of the old west. Indian raids, famine, political graft and corruption all have their place in the well-planned plot.

"COMEDIE FRANCAISE" OPENS AT ROXY

Who is Bronya?

This question was asked thousands of times on the Paris boulevards when overnight the name "Bronya" became the toast of Parisians who love their ladies served on a platter au naturel.

She was the dancing hit of "Folies Bergere."

CAPITOL TO PRESENT

"PAROLE FIXER" SUNDAY

"The Cisco Kid and the Lady" opened yesterday at the Capitol, starring Cesar Romero and Marjorie Weaver. It will continue through Saturday.

Authentic revelations gathered by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in his years of crime detection work, serve as the basis for the exposure of parole corruption in the new screen hit, "Parole Fixer," which opens a three-day engagement at the Capitol theater, starting Sunday.

On the stage, starting Sunday, the Capitol offers Bell's original "Hawaiian Folies," a unit which has a splendid all-star cast of native performers who will be heard in music, song, and dance of the world-famous islands in the Pacific which are so popular with tourists.

FOX TO PRESENT

"LITTLE OLD NEW YORK"

Anchors aweigh! The "Clermont" is sailing again! The world's first steamboat, built by Robert Fulton in 1807, steams up the mighty Hudson river once again on the screen of the Fox theater, where "Little Old New York" opens tomorrow. The film features Alice Faye, Fred MacMurray, Richard Greene and Brenda Joyce at the head of a cast including Andy Devine, Henry Stephenson and Fritz Feld.

As the daughter of a famous European statesman hiding in Switzerland from his enemies intent on extinguishing the light of freedom in Europe, she aids her father in revealing to the world the sensational inside story of the new international intrigue.

As the accompanying feature, the Paramount presents the Jones Family in "Young as You Feel."

THEATRE GUILD

PLANS TWO PLAYS

The Atlanta Theater Guild's Workshop plays for March, which have been in rehearsal the past few weeks, are to be presented at 8:30 o'clock today and tomorrow at the Castle Playhouse, 87 Fifteenth street.

"The Swamp Spirit," under the direction of James Weems, will be presented by the older group and in the cast are Cicely McNeill, Gloria Axelrod, Lew Tilley, Earl Briggs and Bill Smith.

The children's play, "A Dress to Dance In," directed by Julia Boyd, director of the Guild's Children's theater, and the following children will participate: Elaine,

SHARP

Shootin'

By Al Sharp

A group of golf pros were talking and the subject of caddies came up. It led to a few stories of experiences with the bag-toters.

"I'll always remember the experience I had with a caddy years ago," Howard Beckett, of Capital City, remarked. "He was a young boy... Hadn't been caddying before. His first job was with a gentleman who was used to an experienced caddy. The golfer didn't know the boy was new."

"Well, they got to the eleven-hole hole before the golfer sent the boy back to the caddy house. He came in with the caddy to tell all about it. 'He was downright impudent,' the golfer said. 'Later, I went out to talk to the kid. He was crying. 'What's the matter, buddy?' I asked him. 'Mr. S— said you were impudent.' 'He couldn't stop whimpering for a while, but when I kept urging him to tell me all about it, he finally blurted out: 'Why, I wasn't impudent. Mr. Beckett, I just told him I was caddying as good as he was playing golf.'"

Harry Stephens, of Druid Hills, told the next one.

The golfer was thoroughly disgusted, the story went. He was also mad.

"Doggonit," he said, "this caddy is the worst I ever saw. I've been raising Cain with him

VARSITY ELEVEN SEEKS REVENGE ON RED SHIRTS

2,500 Expected To See Intra-Squad Final Scrimmage.

ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—Georgia's football squad will share the athletic spotlight with the annual state high school basketball tournament Friday afternoon when Coach Wallace Butts sends his charges through the final drill of the spring.

Coach Butts has announced the third intra-squad game this spring will be held, starting at 3 o'clock, and a crowd likely to exceed 2,500 will be in the stands.

The red-shirts won the other two games by scores of 27 to 18 and 14 to 13, but the Blacks last Saturday showed plenty of improvement and are given an equal chance to capture the final tussle.

Coach Butts and his assistants have rearranged the squad since the first game and the two groups are as near even as they can possibly be.

Crowds of approximately 2,000 saw both of the previous contests and the large number of high school visitors for the tournament should make Friday's audience the largest ever to see a practice at the University of Georgia. Gates are closed to the public until Friday, however.

all the way around. He won't even answer me."

"That one was easy," Stephens related. "Just a simple matter of telling the golfer that the caddy was a deaf mute."

Nice situation, eh?

As a rule, caddies are all right, most of them. There are some exceptions, of course. And as soon as those caddies are weeded out, the better.

Players themselves are at fault in many cases. They tell the boys to do things that shouldn't be done.

At least, we have seen that happen a number of times. So perhaps the members can do a lot to help educate caddies. It is worth a try.

Dot Kirby Invited To Memphis Meet

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 6.—(P)—Several aces among the nation's women golfers, many of whom have played here before, are invited to compete in the Memphis Country Club's invitation tournament May 21-25 for the Gault trophy.

Dr. Richmond McKinney, club president, in announcing dates for the meet, said invitations have been extended to Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky.; National Champion Betty Jameson, of Dallas; Dorothy Kirby, of Atlanta; and Patty Berg, Minneapolis lass who won the 1937 national in Memphis. Several have indicated they would accept, he said, and the 1939 winner, beauteous Shirley Ann Johnson, of Chicago, already has entered.

Women's Golf Meet Set at Druid Hills

The Druid Hills Women's Golf Association will hold a one-day tournament tomorrow, starting at 9 o'clock. Prizes for putting and a special attendance award will be given.

N. A. P. S. Battles Seminary Tonight

Annual Cage Classic To Start at 7:30 on Henry Grady Court.

By CAROLYN MATTHEWS.

North Avenue Presbyterian and Washington Seminary enthusiasts are getting at a fever pitch of excitement over the annual game tonight at the Henry Grady court at 7:30 o'clock.

The records have a great deal to say about this yearly clash which marks the ending of the basketball season for both teams, but as in most contests of this kind, tension is a ruling factor, and anything can happen—and usually does.

For the past 11 years, Lady Luck has dealt her victories in streaks. The first four games of this series were won by Washington Seminary; the fifth was tied. Then the next five were taken by North Avenue. Last year, Seminary came around for another laurel—but whether or not this starts another cycle of wins, Naps will have to decide.

Out of the total of nine games this year, North Avenue has won five, while Seminary has been victorious in nine out of 13 games.

Athens, considered outstanding opponent of each team, defeated both the Atlanta sextets this season, so not much of a clue comes from this direction.

Washington Seminary can count on Ouida Hudson and Whelchel, forwards, and Blackhall, guard, to provide an effective offensive and defensive technique.

Naps can sincerely boast of Eleanor Kent, star forward, with five aides as the Harvard twins, both guards; Ruth Dillon and Evans.

Decatur Girls Win Two From N. A. P. S.

Superior guarding on the part of Decatur High yesterday won two games from North Avenue Presbyterian school at the Y. W. C. A. Using alternating teams, the Decatur girls won the varsity set-up, 39 to 17, and the subdivision, 19 to 8.

Boswell turned in top score for Decatur varsity with 15 points, Bond and Dukehart trying for second place with 12. Walker and Womack were the reasons for Decatur's good guarding. Kent, forward; Dillon and Taylor, forwards, were best from North Avenue.

MORE THAN 200 WILL TAKE PART IN ANNUAL MEET

Finals and Semi-Finals Are Scheduled for Saturday.

ATHENS, Ga., March 6.—More than 200 of Georgia's finest athletes began converging on Athens today to begin the fifteenth annual state high school basketball tournament tomorrow under the auspices of the University of Georgia.

Starting at 5 o'clock (E. S. T.) tomorrow afternoon, old Woodruff hall, where all games are to be played, will be the object of basketball fans throughout Georgia for the next three days.

Five games are on the opening day's program, with two "D" teams, Bowersville, of the tenth district, and Elizabeth Junior High school, of Marietta, clashing in the opener.

TIGNALL PLAYS.

At 6 o'clock and 7 o'clock "C" teams will have the floor, Palmer Stone, fifth district, and Roopville, of the fourth, clashing first and Tignall, of the tenth, and Barney, second, meeting next.

Class "B" teams will play at 8 and 9 o'clock. Canton, ninth district, meeting Greenville, of the fourth, and Greensboro, tenth, winding up the night's program with a game with Clarkston, fifth.

Games are scheduled every hour Friday from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock that night.

COMPETITION KEEN.

Competition in the "B" division is said to be the keenest in recent years, with at least five of the ten teams given a good chance to capture the crown now worn by Eatonton. Seeded quintets in the top group are Greensboro, Canton, Donalsonville, and Perry, with Hazelhurst and Eatonton ranked right up there with the favorites.

Semi-finals will be held Saturday morning and finals Saturday night with the exception of the "D" group, whose final game will be played at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Drawings, Moved Up From Friday, Stated at 180 Mitchell Street.

Closing time for entries in the spring trial to be run Saturday and Sunday by the Atlanta Field Trial Club has been moved up to tonight. Drawings will be held at 180 Mitchell street, starting promptly at 8 p. m.

A large entry of pointers and setters is expected for the trial, according to Secretary W. D. Klinepeter. The new course laid out over Fear's farm near Hampton, Ga., will allow additional bird cover for the dogs to work in.

Saturday's programs get under way at 8 a. m., when entries in the junior puppy stakes are put down. Senior puppy entries will come next with the derby stake slated to close the day's program.

Highlight of the trial is scheduled Sunday morning with the running of the junior all-age and all-age stakes. Dogs in both these stakes will be run on liberated game.

Dog owners in the Atlanta vicinity are invited to enter their candidates in the various stakes. Any registered bird dog is eligible for entry. Complete information may be obtained at the drawing. Judges for all events will be Roy Persons and Hunter Pope, of Monticello, Ga. The public is invited to witness the trials.

Lost 3 Weeks, Ring Is Found

While he was playing golf at the Bobby Jones course Fred Tsch lost a diamond ring. That happened three weeks ago.

The ring had been presented Tsch by his employees, so there was a sentimental as well as a monetary value involved.

Yesterday Tsch found the ring. He caught the glint of the diamond as he went down the eighth fairway. He was playing with Pete Williams and Don Gavan.

Not a diamond in the rough, but it might as well have been. For some one had stepped on the ring.

Dodd Is Mentioned For Vanderbilt Job

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 6. (P)—A committee named to recommend to the Vanderbilt University athletic board a successor to Ray Morrison, who resigned Monday as head football coach to accept a similar post at Temple University, failed to meet again late today.

It was understood that few, if any, formal applications for the job had been received.

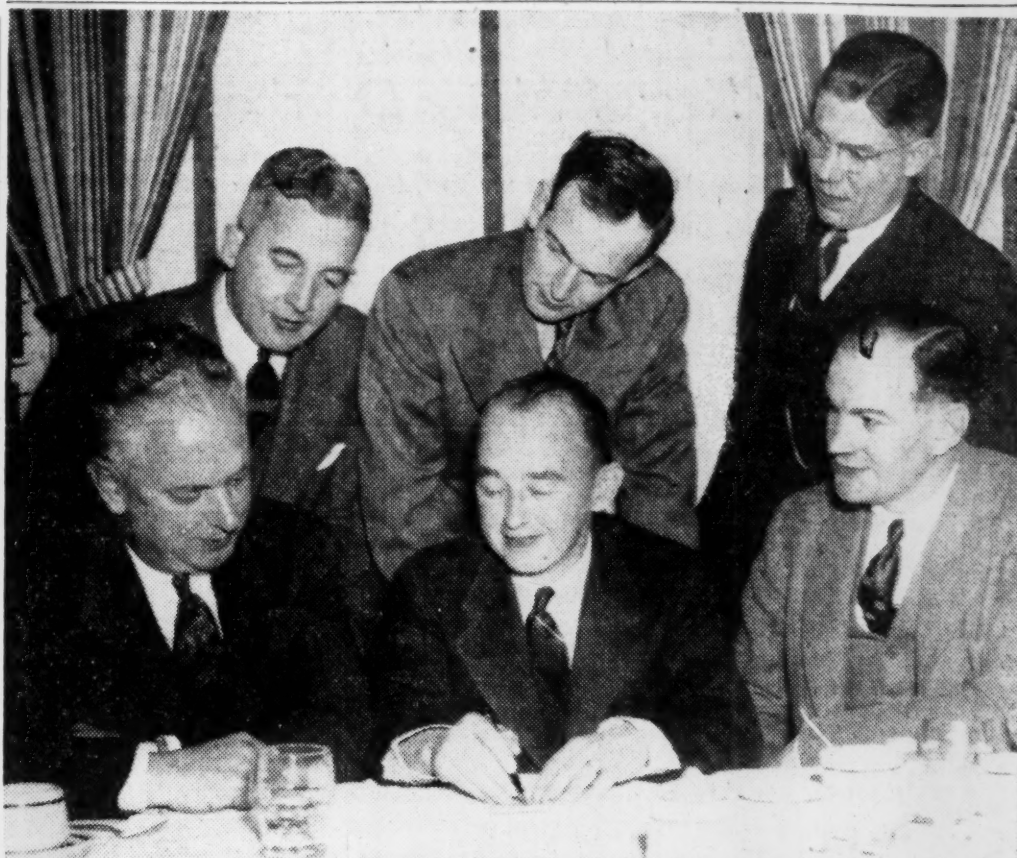

However, numerous names were being mentioned, and at the top of the list was Henry "Red" Sanders, backfield coach at L. S. U. The Tennessean said it was reported the former Vanderbilt gridders was in the city, having driven up today from Baton Rouge.

The Tennessean said also that Bobby Dodd, former University of Tennessee star and at present backfield coach at Georgia Tech, along with Jess Neely, a Vandy alumnus who resigned at Clemson to become head coach at Rice Institute, likewise were being mentioned prominently for the Vanderbilt post.

Meanwhile, the coachless Commodores let it be known they intended to continue their spring practice drills while the committee continues its search for a new mentor.

The committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow.

Dodd, contacted here last night, said it was all news to him and that he had not been approached.

Clayton Is Re-elected Public Links Head

Association Meeting Discusses Plans For Sending Team to National Tournament.

By AL SHARP.

George Clayton, of the James L. Key course, was re-elected president of the Atlanta Public Links Association last night at a meeting held in the Colonnade.

Other officers re-elected were: Gerrard Allen, of Black Rock, first vice president; Pro Herb Norton, secretary, and Don Gavan, of Bobby Jones, chairman of the board of directors. Welden Johnson, of Piedmont, was chosen second vice president, and Harold Spears, of Bobby Jones, treasurer.

Plans to send a team to the national public links tournament at Detroit July 22-28 were discussed. In connection with the qualifying for this team, it was decided to hold the test at one course on one day. The association hoped to have a larger turnout for the qualifying finals, and clubs will be asked to hold separate trials to pick their entrants for the finals.

President Clayton pointed out that improvement of municipal golf in Atlanta was the reason for the association's existence in the first place. Work on the $30,000 clubhouse and improvement of the Bobby Jones course was a project that resulted from interest in the organization, he said. The course is being lengthened with the idea of having the 1942 national tourney here.

The president and other officers were praised highly for their work in the association.

An increase in membership from the present 200 to 500 will be one of this year's goals.

Other members present were: Mortimer H. Freeman, president at Key; Charles Murphy, Arthur Keeble, F. K. Duxley, and Pro Charlie Edens, of Key; E. O. Morris, Ed Lovett, Jim Daves, W. C. Archer and Blithe Thomas, of Black Rock; Lee C. McClure, Marvin G. Russell, Bob Smith and Bill Ingram, of Bobby Jones; Bill Teague, P. B. McCarthy and Pete Tate, of John A. White; H. C. McDonald, Pro Teddy Hayes, N. P. Bard, Kurt F. Straus, Robert E. Lee and S. H. Chilton, of Candler Park; and L. T. Cotton, of Piedmont.

Flaubert, in a Wild Fit, Throws
The Only Keg of Water Overboard

By HALSEY RAINES.

SYNOPSIS.
Escaping from the penal colony at Santa Margala, Moll leads one party of convicts across the jungle to a beach where he has commandeered a boat. A second party of five men meets with disaster; one man is shot, a second killed by Indians, a third dies of snakebite. Verne, escaping after Moll has tricked him, brings Julie, a café girl from the town. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IV.

"Hold on to yourself, kid," answered Moll grimly. "If you drink your share now, you'll be just as thirsty tonight. The sun'll dry it out of you as fast as you pour it in."

Flaubert, cutting notches in the side of the boat, had overheard the conversation.

"If he has his share, I'll have mine, too!" he cried.

"Nobody'll have any till it's time to hand it out tonight!" ordered Verne.

Minutes passed, agonizing minutes for Dufond, then he raised his voice in a shrill scream.

"I can't stand it any more!" he shouted.

Moll stepped forward toward the water keg. "All right, kid," he said.

Flaubert, darting forward like an animal, threw himself in front of the precious container. Edging back, he took the cask in his arms.

"He wants to give him my share!" he screamed.

"Get away from that keg, Flaubert!" commanded Verne. "And get back where you were, Moll!" Moll stood his ground, facing Flaubert. "Drop that keg," he ordered, "or I'll pitch you overboard!"

For answer, Flaubert, with a sudden unexpected motion, turned and cast the keg out over the water.

"Let's see you get it now!" he screamed, a maniacal light in his eyes.

Moll raised his hands as though to strangle the other man, but Verne stepped forward and pushed them apart. Suddenly his shoulders sagged, as though showing a break in the long tension.

"Well, that the end of the water," he said slowly.

"And then end of hope," added Hessler.

Julie pressed forward. "Why doesn't somebody do something about getting it back?" she asked.

"Sharks," said Verne laconically. Flaubert began to shake. "I threw it over!" he cried.

"Aren't you going to do anything to me?" "Why should we?" asked Cambreau calmly. "If we die, you do too."

"But I thought they were trying to take something from me!" cried Flaubert.

"No one has ever meant harm to you," said Cambreau.

Flaubert brushed his eyes disbelievingly. "All these years I've been afraid of things that didn't exist," he said. Suddenly he stepped to the bow and, before the others realized his intention, dived over, swimming with laborious strokes toward the prized cask bobbing a short distance away.

Dufond, rushing to the edge of the boat, seemed ready to follow Flaubert. Moll seized his arm.

"Get back, kid!" he ordered. "But you don't understand!" cried Dufond. "It was my fault. It's as if I killed him!"

Flaubert had forced his way to the side of the cask, and began to swim back to the boat, pushing it ahead of him. He made progress slowly but surely. In a few minutes it seemed that he would regain the sloop with his prize.

All at once Julie's eyes widened in horror. She clutched Verne's arm and pointed to a long, black object moving like a torpedo through the water.

The other men followed her gaze, and saw that the shark would be certain to cut off Flaubert before they could pull him aboard.

Dufond, breaking away from Moll's grasp, ran to the bow and poised himself for a leap.

"Come back here!" cried Moll angrily. In three steps he had reached his side, and pulled him backwards.

"Let go!" cried Dufond, struggling. The sound of Flaubert's scream as the shark reached him galvanized him into a last desperate attempt at jumping over.

To prevent it, Moll spun him around, and sent him falling with a terrific clout to the jaw.

Cambreau, coming to Dufond's side, placed his arm under the youngster, and eased him to a less constrained position.

Moll looked down. "I didn't mean to hurt you, kid," he began, "but it would have been suicide."

Catching something in Cambreau's eyes, he started back. "He'll be all right in a jiffy," he added.

"I'm afraid not, Moll," said Cambreau.

"Why? What do you mean?" cried the other.

"He's dead," said Cambreau, simply.

Moll, with a cry that sounded like remorse, dropped to his knees.

"That's two dead," she whispered. "Don't let me be afraid, Verne, do you hear?"

When the keg of water was finally retrieved, Cambreau pointed out that the barrel might have leaked; if there were any salt water inside it meant a slow, agonizing death.

The only way to find out if this was the case was for one person to sample it. Verne impulsively tore a piece of cloth from the bottom of Julie's dress and divided it into four strips.

"Why four strips when I count five in the boat?" asked Julie.

"There are only four men, Julie," responded Cambreau.

"But all five of us drink, don't we?" retorted Julie. "I don't want any free rides." She tore off another strip and handed it to Verne as he looked at her with grudging admiration.

One by one the men drew until there were just two strips left—one of them the unlucky long one. The lot lay now between Verne and Julie.

Moll had been saying nothing, but watching Julie very closely. Perhaps he was still thinking of Dufond, who had been taken out of life with most of years ahead of him. Suddenly he snatched up the tin cup, filled it with water, and held it in the air facing Verne.

"It's tough to see someone that means something to you kick off," he cried. "So why should we let her in for that?"

Suddenly he raised the cup and drained it dry. Then he reached into his pocket and drew out a sheaf of bank notes, which he pitched at Verne's feet. "That will save you the trouble of taking it later," he said. Then he turned to Cambreau. "Suppose I've been wrong all my life," he said. "Would it do any good to admit it now?"

Continued Tomorrow.

Your Own Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chiologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 10th (ARIES)—Previous day is the time when you should get in some good work involving finances, legal, medical, educational and business. Between 10:25 p. m. and 10:55 p. m. domestic affairs. The remainder of the day favors routine matters.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The influences throughout the entire day incline toward nervous energy, with a desire to do things quickly, which can go into undue aggression. By being unusually tactful, you can overcome such feelings.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—The entire day and until 10:45 p. m. you will have the impulse to act quickly, speak sharply, and to change your activities. Calmness will be the best policy, avoiding changes.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—Investments, financial dealings and seeking favors from legal and medical sources are favored; previous to 10:14 p. m. Between 10:14 p. m. and 10:22 p. m. you have a tendency toward overindulgence of appetite and carelessness, which should be curbed.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—The morning hours and until 1:41 p. m. are the best hours of the day, favoring pleasures, social ideas and dealings that call for a jovial nature. After 1:41 p. m. headstrong tendencies would be curbed.

Aug. 23rd and Sept. 22nd (VIRGO)—Previous to 1:31 p. m. is a very steady period, favoring conservative works, real estate, tackling hard jobs. Between 1:31 p. m. and 6:12 p. m. does not favor new beginnings. After 6:12 p. m. favors dealings with people who are out of the ordinary.

Sept. 23rd and Oct. 22nd (LIBRA)—The day does not favor important plans, decisions or changes. The better part of the day is after 2:03 p. m. Oct. 23rd and Nov. 21st (SCORPIO)—The day favors general business activities, home and social duties, but is not a period for taking aggressive action and for consummating deals in a hurry.

Nov. 22nd and Dec. 21st (SAGITTARIUS)—The day does not favor changes, but rather adhering to old ideas or affairs already started. The period past 5:37 p. m. favors contacting loved ones, and for the social and artistic side of life.

Dec. 22nd and Jan. 19th (CAPRICORN)—After 2:33 p. m. favors meetings, conferences, plans and projects, both of a social and business nature. The morning hours suggest following routine matters.

Jan. 20th and Feb. 18th (AQUARIUS)—The entire morning and until 2:06 p. m. favors putting aggressive action behind matters dealing with land, and if you have strong standing matters that are not completed, try and complete them.

Feb. 19th and March 20th (PISCES)—The entire day is favorable for dealings with sympathetic, generous people. If you are interested in matters of an artistic nature, you should have constructive dealings with others.
